

Bachmann Says 100 Republican Votes Pledged To Back Repeal

Party Whips Urge Colleagues to be Present First Day
HOPE FOR DECISION
Two-Thirds Vote Being Sought by Wets in Both Houses

Washington—(P)—Some uncertainty over whether the house of representatives will have its promised vote Monday on prohibition repeal emerged today at the capital, if taken—the vote would show a hundred or more Republican members favoring the Garner resolution.

A number of southern Democrats already have served notice privately that they will not vote for repeal, moves which have given rise to hints that caucus might be resorted to so the party members would be held in line.

Washington—(P)—Advocates of the prohibition repeal resolution slated for a house vote on Monday were cheered today by a Republican prediction that a hundred or more members of that party would back it.

Representative Carl Bachmann of West Virginia, the Republican whip, made the prediction as he sent out telegrams urging all his colleagues to be present the opening day of congress.

Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, meanwhile, said he had "surveyed the situation" and found there was "no need for a party caucus" to hold the Democrats.

Nevertheless, there was still talk of such a maneuver if the situation as of Monday would make it seem desirable in the view of the party leadership.

Senator McNary (R., Ore.), earned to President Hoover today an opinion that the repeal question could be "disposed of" on Capitol Hill before the Christmas holidays. He told newspapermen of his White House conference, but would not state whether he expected the disposition to be adoption or defeat of a repeal resolution.

Needs Two-Thirds Vote
In Rainey's opinion, there is a "good chance of repeal being adopted" in the house. On Monday, the party lineup will be 220 Democrats, 208 Republicans one Farmer-Labor and six vacancies.

It will require two-thirds of those voting to approve repeal there, after which the problem goes to the senate where a similar vote will be necessary for adoption.

Rainey said there were certain to be "some defections" among the southern Democrats in the house, but with 100 or more Republicans supporting it, indications are the resolution has fair prospects of getting the required margin.

Bachmann told reporters "the Republicans have lost no advocates for repeal and have picked up some. We had 90 sure votes last spring."

He has sent telegrams, at the request of Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader, to their colleagues insisting that they be here for the vote Monday.

Representative McDuffie of Alabama, has done the same for the Democrats, in his capacity as party whip.

Representative Celler of New York, Democratic member of the judiciary committee, told newspapermen he would urge the committee at its Friday meeting to recommend ratification of prohibition repeal by state legislatures instead of conventions.

Would Change Plan
The convention ratification plan is the method proposed in Speaker Garner's repeal resolution.

"I shall urge the committee to amend the resolution to have ratification by state legislatures instead of constitutional conventions," Celler said. "In the next 90 days, 41 state legislatures meet and it would save time to have them act directly."

"Furthermore, the convention plan would require the setting up of new election machinery and would open the door to gerrymandering by the drys."

Representative Dyer of Missouri, ranking Republican on the judiciary committee, also urged the state legislature method.

Meantime, Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee, said many requests were coming in for hearings before his group beginning Dec 7 on beer legislation.

"We are going to give the wine growers a chance to be heard," he said. "I have no objection to legislation along light wines."

He added, however, that the question of constitutionality of even light wines might be raised by prohibitionists.

Workers in Prison Now Paid 10 Cents Per Day
Waupun—(P)—Some 1,900 inmates of the state penitentiary are now fully aware that there is a depression. Wages of all workers have been reduced from 25 to 10 cents a day. About 400 are idle because of a scarcity of jobs. The salary fund comes from earnings of prison industries such as the manufacture of binder twine.

Medical Centers Advocated After Study by Doctors

Committee Makes 5 Basic Recommendations After Research Since 1927

New York—(P)—The community medical center emerged today as the "keystone" recommendation of the committee on the cost of medical care.

The committee delivered its report, the result of five years of research, before the National Conference on the Costs of Medical Care at the New York Academy of Medicine.

Five basic recommendations were made. They were, in brief: That medical care be furnished largely by organized groups of physicians, dentists, nurses, pharmacists, and other associated personnel, centered around a hospital, and rendering home, office and hospital care.

That all basic public health services be extended until they are available to the entire population, according to its needs.

That the cost of medical care be placed on a group of payment basis through the use of insurance, taxation or both methods, without precluding the continuation of the individual fee basis for those who prefer it.

That a specific organization be formed in every community or

Crisis Believed Past In Ford's Operation

Detroit—(P)—Physicians attending Henry Ford, operated upon for hernia and appendicitis, announced this morning that the 69-year-old industrialist had spent a restful night. A bulletin issued at 10 a. m. stated:

"Mr Ford had a quiet, restful night. His temperature is 98.6; pulse 70 and respiration 16."

The bulletin was signed by Doctors Roy D. McClelland and Frank J. Sladen. To physicians, the bulletin indicated that the motor magnate successfully had passed the period during which post-operative infection is possible, and only rest and quiet for at least 10 days more was necessary to complete his recovery.

Green Bay Resident Is Held in Shooting

Green Bay—(P)—Lester LaFave was ordered taken into custody by Sheriff Joseph Francis, on orders of A. McComb, assistant district attorney, following the death in a Green Bay hospital today of Mae Malliet, from the effects of a gunshot wound.

The stomach received Nov. 6 while she was a passenger in LaFave's car.

LaFave claims the gun was discharged accidentally. Coroner Frank Hodek impaneled a jury, and an inquest will be held on a date not yet fixed.

RETAIN COUNTY AGENT

Oshkosh—(P)—Reversing its decision of last summer, the Winnebago board voted 29 to 14 yesterday to retain the office of county agricultural agent. O. P. Cuff now holds the job.

Taxpayers Ask School Board To Lower Costs

Teachers Due for Cut Next Year, Citizen's Group Is Advised

BUDGET STUDIED

Salary Decrease Can't be Put Into Effect This Year, Says Kreiss

Manufacturers, businessmen and common taxpayers met last night at Lincoln school with members of the board of education, and after listening to an explanation of the school budget and comparisons with the budgets of other cities, impressed upon the school men the necessity for reducing school costs in every possible manner. About a dozen men invited by C. K. Boyer, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee, and by Mayor John Goodland, met with the board and the school principals.

While Mr. Boyer, as chairman of the committee, declined to commit the committee to a definite suggestion that teachers' salaries be reduced, yet it was freely suggested during the meeting that a large saving could be effected in that manner. W. H. Kreiss, president of the board, said nothing could be done about salary reductions this year because salaries were fixed by contracts that do not expire until next June, but he said that the new contracts for next year would carry smaller pay for teachers.

Replying to a direct question from H. H. Heible, principal of the high school, as to what specific recommendations that committee had for reducing expenses, Mr. Boyer said that board of education had the responsibility of finding the places to make the savings. Others at the meeting, however, said that inasmuch as salaries constitute approximately 80 per cent of the total cost of schools, it was obvious that they offered the largest possibilities for making savings.

Rohan Quotes Figures
Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, pointing to figures written on blackboards on three sides of the meeting room, explained the items that enter into the school budget, and made comparisons of school costs in Appleton with other cities, and also compared this year's budget with preceding years.

He said that the per capita cost of instruction in city schools has declined steadily year by year and that the average daily attendance at schools has constantly increased since the adoption of the union school system.

Although several additional teachers have been engaged since 1926 to take care of increased enrollment, the total for salaries since that time has increased only $24,000, Mr. Rohan said, and he accounted for part of this increase by pointing to the practice of giving increases of $50 a year to teachers who attend summer school.

One of the men at last night's meeting was in the group that visited with Mayor Goodland and the council Friday afternoon to discuss city costs, and it was stated that the matter of teachers' salaries was not discussed at that time. Mr. Boyer said it was the purpose of his committee in the meetings with the mayor and with school board to urge upon officials the necessity for reducing expenses as much as possible.

Rep. McLaughlin, Michigan, Dies

Congressman Found Dead In Bathroom of Hotel In Marion, Va.

Marion, Va.—(P)—James McLaughlin, for 26 years representative in congress from the Ninth district of Michigan, was found dead early today in the bathroom of an hotel here.

Mr. McLaughlin came here about 6 o'clock last night accompanied by his secretary, Miss Anna Jensen, and Miss Elsie Good, secretary to Representative J. C. Ketcham, of the Fourth Michigan district. His companions said he was on a pleasure trip but had been ill since leaving St. Louis.

Ketcham said at Washington that McLaughlin had been taking a motor trip through Virginia with friends and had recently complained of not feeling well.

"Mr. McLaughlin was called at his hotel in Marion at 8 o'clock this morning," Ketcham said, "and said he would be down to breakfast immediately."

"When he did not appear for some time, hotel attendants again knocked on his door."

"Receiving no answer they entered and found Mr. McLaughlin dead in the shower. The water had been turned off when apparently he died of heart failure."

McLaughlin was a member of the powerful house ways and means committee. He was defeated for reelection by Harry W. Musselwhite, Democrat.

The death will bring the party lineup in the present house of representatives to 208 Republicans, 220 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor and six vacancies.

Milwaukee—(P)—C. S. McClen, 20, was killed in suburban Wauwatosa last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Anton LaSocci. The driver reported to police and was ordered to return today for questioning.

Both Participants Of Pistol Duel are Wounded Fatally

Columbus, Miss.—(P)—An unexpected pistol duel in the middle of a street cost the lives of a surgeon and a business man of prominent family connection here last night.

Dr. W. C. Brewer, owner of the Columbus hospital and one of Mississippi's foremost surgeons, died almost instantly, his body punctured by several bullets. Charles H. Jacob, the business man, was struck only once but died on the way to the hospital.

No witnesses came forward immediately to tell just what had happened, but officers said they understood the two encountered one another in the street as Dr. Brewer left his hospital.

There was a fusillade of bullets and both men dropped where they stood. An investigation was launched to determine the cause of the shooting.

Dr. Brewer was 56 and unmarried. Jacob was 48 and is survived by his widow and three children. He had been associated with his father in the machine shop and foundry business. Dr. Brewer's survivors include a niece, Mrs. N. H. Harris of Shelby, N. C.

Von Papen Again To be Appointed Reich Chancellor

Von Schleicher Turned Down by Nazis in Quest of Support

Berlin—(P)—The reappointment of Franz von Papen as chancellor of the Reich began to be regarded as a certainty in political circles today when word came from the Nazis that they would not support a cabinet formed by General Kurt von Schleicher.

Gregor Strasser, second in command of the forces of Adolf Hitler, declined to come to Berlin from his Munich headquarters at the request of General von Schleicher, it became known. Dr. Wilhelm Frick, another Hitler lieutenant, came instead but informed the defense minister that he, like Von Papen, would encounter determined opposition from the Nazis.

General von Schleicher accepted the tentative task of trying to form a cabinet only on the condition that he could avoid a clash with the Reichstag, and his failure to win over the opposition was regarded as tantamount to his yielding to Von Papen, who has been serving temporarily although he has resigned.

General von Schleicher has been working three days to secure at least a political truce if not toleration and perhaps support from a majority of the Reichstag through the winter.

Even last night the general felt confident of success, until Hitler's intransigence dashed his hopes, but this doesn't mean the end of his political career.

It was generally understood General von Schleicher was being held in reserve for the erection of a military dictatorship in case of the direst necessity.

In some political quarters the belief even persisted that President von Hindenburg would insist on General von Schleicher forming a cabinet despite the rebuff from the Nazis.

If Chancellor von Papen is reappointed he must find some way of riding himself of the Reichstag, either by a third dissolution or possibly by a forcible six months adjournment as an emergency measure under Article 48 in the constitution.

The chancellor, like Von Schleicher, has said he would be willing to refrain from all political experiments, and center his efforts solely on getting the nation through the economic and social dangers of the coming winter.

Soviet Foe of Stalin In Critical Condition

Moscow—(P)—Gregory S. Zinoviev, once one of the powers in the Soviet government but now exiled from the inner councils of the Communist party, was seriously ill today.

About a month ago Zinoviev, charged with conspiring against Joseph Stalin, the head of the Communist party, was permanently expelled from the organization. It was reported that a heart attack followed his expulsion, and he was treated at the Kremlin hospital. There were reports earlier today that he had died, but subsequently this was authoritatively denied.

Canal Gates Opened to Permit Floods to Pass

Balboa, Canal Zone—(P)—The Panama canal was closed to traffic early today as 13 of the Gatun dam spillway gates stood open to pass a torrent of flood water from the rampaging Chagres river.

It was the first time in history so many flood gates swung wide, only 12 having been opened during the great flood of 1923. Officials said a crest had been reached at 4 p. m. yesterday, but there was a possibility of a greater rise because storm conditions on the Atlantic side were continuing.

The canal hydrographic station up the Chagres was washed out, and the coffer dam at Madden dam was flooded. The lock culverts at Pedro Miguel and Gatun were opened to relieve the pressure.

"The flood started only two hours before its crest of 200,000 second

Thinks Costs Estimate Fair For Waterway

Engineer Testifies Extravagant Estimates are Not Warranted

SEES CHEAPER RATE

Freight Costs Would be Reduced Greatly, Senate Committee Told

Washington—(P)—Complete confidence was expressed today by Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of army engineers, that the St. Lawrence waterway could be completed within the official estimates of $543,000,000.

He agreed with opponents of the project in his appearance before a senate committee. However, that $30,000,000 should be added to the American cost for accrued interest.

Pillsbury was the second witness as the committee continued its hearings of friends of the treaty signed with Canada last July for development of a deep sea channel from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. Nearly a week was devoted earlier to opponents.

The witness said he had been unable to "find any basis for the very extravagant estimates that have been presented to this committee as to the cost of the project."

Estimates running almost to $1,500,000,000 were presented by treaty opponents.

Pillsbury said some of these were based on a 30-foot channel, whereas the plans propose only 27-foot.

Questioned by committee members about charges that the estimates did not include accrued interest, Pillsbury said it was not the practice of the army engineers to include carrying charges in making estimates for congress.

Should be Included
"They should be included to arrive at the actual cost to the United States," he said. "The accrued interest on $221,000,000 for a period of seven years which it is estimated the project will require is approximately $30,000,000. No doubt that should be considered and that the cost to the United States should be stated as $250,000,000 rather than $221,000,000."

Charges by opponents that the treaty proposed expenditure of $40,000,000 by the United States for a power plant in Canada "with no compensating benefits to the United States," Pillsbury denied.

Pillsbury testified "there is every reason to believe" that ocean going vessels steaming through the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes would carry freight at far cheaper rates than those now existing.

Turning to the question of water diversion from Lake Michigan, at the suggestion of the committee, the engineer said the importance of that issue had been "greatly exaggerated" and asserted it was "not of great consequence one way or the other."

Revolta Shoots 216 At Miami Open Meet

Miami - Biltmore Golf Course, Coral Gables, Fla.—(P)—John Revolta, youthful Menominee, Mich., professional, laid a beautiful chip shot today to the pin at the fifty-fourth hole for a 26-36-72 in today's morning round of the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament and scored a 216 to lead the first half of the field.

Revolta maintained for the time being the lead he took at conclusion of 36 holes play yesterday with a 144.

He was one over par going out on the morning round, but held even with par on the return trip.

Revolta's 216 placed him four strokes ahead of Al Espinosa, Akron, Ohio, who took a 220 after challenging the Michigan youngster at the turn.

High School Student Sues His Instructor

Madison—(P)—Elwin Allen, 19, Marshall high school pupil today filed suit against Leo Boebel, an instructor, for $2,500 damages, claiming that his hearing was impaired when Boebel struck him on the ear. The instructor said the blow was not a severe one, as Allen claimed but a gentle slap to discipline the pupil after he had pushed another student away from a drinking fountain at the school.

France, Britain Seek For Solution of Huge Problem Over Debts

No Notification of Delay In Payment by Great Britain

WAIT FOR EUROPE

"Next Move Must Come From A Broad," Mills Declares

Washington—(P)—Secretary Mills, commenting on reports that Great Britain would pay only the $65,000,000 interest payment on its $85,000,000 war debt installment due Dec. 15, today told newspapermen this possibility had not been discussed officially.

The treasury secretary said there was no basis for any report at this time that Great Britain would postpone its $30,000,000 principal payment due on Dec. 15.

Mills yesterday conferred at length with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, but reiterated today that any such postponement had not been mentioned.

Remainder of the day nearly an hour after the regular meeting had adjourned, Mills declined to say what had been discussed.

"We are as completely in the dark now as we were yesterday, as far as the war debt question is concerned," he said. "The next move must come from abroad."

Meanwhile, Representative McFadden, Pennsylvania Republican, often at odds with the administration, at the capitol expressed to reporters the view that England and France might cut down their debts to this country by turning over some of the possessions they have in American waters.

He would exclude Canada from the territorial transfer but even so, he said, Britain still has a total area of 110,000 square miles, including nearby Bermuda, Jamaica and many small islands.

France, he said, has islands and other territory of 33,000 square miles, which she could turn over to be credited on the war debt books.

He has not changed his stand against cancellation or revision.

Three More Deer Hunters Killed

Oshkosh Man Fatally Shot While Leaving Auto In Vilas-co

(By The Associated Press)
Three more deaths were added yesterday to the toll of the deer hunting season in Wisconsin. Those killed were:

Harold Butts, 25, Oshkosh.
Clarence Ackley, 47, Bloomer.
Hauold Mundt, 24, Lake Mills.

Butts died from a bullet fired accidentally from his own gun as he was getting out of a car at Winches, Wis., in Vilas-co. He had been hunting with a party of nine men from Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha and Appleton. A coroner's inquest, held at Eagle River, pronounced the shooting accidental.

Ackley died at a Chippewa Falls hospital from wounds received Thanksgiving day. He was shot in the right leg when his companion's rifle accidentally discharged while the men were hunting near Exeland, Wis. His leg was amputated Saturday in an effort to save his life.

Mundt was killed outright while driving an automobile along Highway 77, near Glidden, Wis. The shot was fired by Henry Cook of Clam Lake, who had been following a wounded deer. About dusk, Cook saw a movement in the brush and fired. The bullet struck Mundt in the chest, passing through his lungs and heart. Coroner Louis Solie declared the shooting accidental. Mundt shot his deer last week, but remained north until his uncle, Roland Finger of Lake Mills, killed a buck.

Butts and his companions left for the northern part of the state a week ago last Saturday. Those in the party from Appleton included Dan Petersen, Roosevelt Petersen, Walter Quandt, Walter Raethel, and Earl Kleist.

Green Bay Man Denies Violation of Dry Law

Green Bay—(P)—Charles Pavlat, proprietor of a soft drink parlor here, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner John F. Watermolen on charges of dry law violations and maintaining a nuisance. He furnished $500 bond for his appearance at a preliminary hearing Dec. 6.

Dismisses Case Against Torture Holdup Suspect

Green Bay—(P)—Dismissal of the case against Thomas Potter, Chicago, charged with having driven the automobile used by four men who tortured and robbed his brother-in-law, Louis Swantek, was ordered in municipal court here late yesterday. An oil station attendant upon whose identification of Potter the state had based its case admitted he wasn't sure Potter drove the car.

1,000 Dairymen Prepare to Join Milk Strike Move

Group Supplying Milwaukee Market Acts Upon Singler's Plea

Milwaukee—(P)—Acting on the plea of Walter Singler, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool association, to unite in a demand for higher milk prices, 1,000 farmers supplying the Milwaukee market voted last night to join in a milk strike.

The vote was taken at a meeting in the Nightingale ballroom near Menomonee Falls. It was agreed that those present would withhold milk from the Milwaukee market any time Singler gave the signal to strike. The vote climaxed a talk by Singler in which he charged that the state department of agriculture and markets is not working for the best interests of the farmers.

One of the duties of the state department, he said, should be to establish a minimum milk price for producers and a centralized organization for regulating milk prices, instead of permitting some 900 individual cooperatives in the state to fight each other.

Producers' Body
Singler also criticized the Milwaukee Cooperative Milk Producers' association which, he said, was revealed at last week's milk price hearings as a buying organization for milk distributors, instead of a selling organization for the producers.

The meeting was called to enlist support for a proposed state-wide milk strike tentatively scheduled to start Dec. 1 if a 5-cent increase per 100 pounds of butterfat is not forthcoming. Lack of organization among milk producers has necessitated postponement of plans formed by the Milk Pool at a recent meeting in Appleton, Singler said.

"We need a concerted effort. The whole state must be lined up, because if you stop shipping to Milwaukee the producers will import milk from other areas and break up the effectiveness of the embargo. But if we do strike, we'll go out for a lot more than the 5 cents increase in butterfat prices," Singler said.

French Submarine Is Launched at Cherbourg

Cherbourg, France—(P)—The first class submarine Gloireux was successfully launched here today. She is designed for a surface displacement of 1,400 tons, a submerged displacement of 2,000 tons, a surface speed of 20 knots, and submerged speed of 10 knots. The vessel will be ready for trials next March. The Gloireux is similar to the Prometheus and Persee.

The Prometheus sank with a loss of 66 lives off Cherbourg harbor last July, and six lives were lost in an explosion aboard the Persee in September.

Europe's debt to America still occupies the statesmen of every country concerned to the exclusion of other issues.

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain is giving his entire attention to the preparation of a second note by which he hopes to convince the United States that postponement of the $95,550,000 payment due Dec. 15 is essential to the economic well-being of the world.

Labor Votes Five-Day Week, Six-Hour Day

Opposes Reduction in Pay In Action at Cincinnati Convention

Cincinnati, Ohio.—(P)—Encouraged by the roar of approval with which their convention accepted one phase of their program for unemployment relief, leaders of the American Federation of Labor looked forward today to speedy action on others.

The body yesterday committed itself to a nation wide application of the five-day work week and six-hour day without reduction of wages.

Today, the convention awaited the resolution committee's report on compulsory unemployment insurance, recommended by the federal executive council—along with shorter work schedules—as "of prime importance if unemployment relief is to be obtained."

Another committee studied a move urged by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who yesterday presented a resolution calling for an amendment to the federation's constitution to enlarge the executive council membership by increasing vice presidents from 8 to 23. Lewis declined to discuss his proposal, except to say "it is broad matter of constructive change."

It was President William Green who in a speech that lifted delegates to their feet, led the fight for convention advocacy of the five-day week and six-hour day.

Determined on Action
"We must let the world know we demand action in response to our appeals to reason, or we'll secure it through force of some kind," Green declared.

Later he explained he meant "economic force," with possible recourse to strikes, picketing and boycotting.

Green said the government will be asked to adopt the plan for federal employees. Then, "we shall fall on both parties to make good their promises" favoring a shorter work-week and work-day.

The delegates heard Secretary of Labor William D. Donk declare that because of his fight against backfiring he had been threatened "with assassination several times." He called upon labor to mobilize behind its leaders in the "war" against racketeers.

The convention approved a proposal that congress be asked to conduct a nation wide study of school finances, and took a stand against reductions in teachers' salaries, or shortening the school year.

Academy Candidates Named by Schneider

Washington.—Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton today nominated Gerald T. Joyce of Green Bay as his principal candidate for admission to the United States naval academy at Annapolis next July 1 and Richard W. Fellows of Algoma as his principal candidate for the United States military academy at West Point.

William L. Wagner of Green Bay and Robert Menning of Appleton were named first and second alternates, respectively, to the West Point appointee, and George P. Schoener of Marinette, Paul Stano of Green Bay and John H. Youngs of Stiles were nominated, first, second and third alternates to the Annapolis appointee.

Schneider made the nominations strictly in accordance with ratings given the young men in examinations held by the United States civil service commission on Oct. 22. They will take the entrance examinations for the academies next spring.

Scout Heads Leave for Regional Conference

Four valley council boy scout executives left this morning for Chicago to attend the annual assembly of Region Seven, Boy Scouts of America, at Drake hotel, Chicago. They are N. Belanger, past president of the council, and executive board member; M. C. Mr. Belanger will preside at a sectional conference of council presidents, executives and committeemen.

Oshkosh Man Sentenced On Prohibition Charge

Milwaukee.—(P)—John Edwards, Oshkosh, who told Federal Judge F. A. Geiger Monday that he went into the liquor business because he was tired of farming but now longed to get back on the farm, was sentenced by the judge to six months in the Milwaukee House of Correction and fined $200. Edwards has been in jail since May.

Colon Santner, Lilly, Wis., was given 90 days for taking liquor to the Menominee Indian reservation.

For transporting a stolen Illinois car Joseph Nemmer, Racine, was sentenced to a one-year term.

Duties Performed By County Agent Outlined by Sell

County Established Office Here in 1923, Report Reveals

An outline of the functions which a county agricultural agent performs is contained in the annual report of Gustav A. Sell, Outagamie county agent, to the county board.

Outagamie-co first engaged a county agent in 1923, Mr. Sell pointed out, following a complete investigation of what benefits might be expected to result from such a move. Mr. Sell's report, in part, follows:

"The inauguration and carrying on of this work, while cooperative with state and federal governments, is entirely voluntary with the county. In Wisconsin it depends on action by the county board of supervisors. Whenever a county asks for it the state and federal governments enter into an agreement with that county for two year periods. The man for this responsible position is chosen by the local committee, as indicated above, from a number proposed by the state director, and must be satisfactory to both parties at all times.

"The county agricultural committee, elected annually by the board of supervisors, has direct charge and control of the work locally. It helps the agent plan what activities are to be carried on and guides him in their development. This committee at the beginning of the year consisted of Malachi Ryan, Mike Mack, John Diederich, John Sawall, and A. G. Meating. One member, John Sawall, was later replaced by John Grafmeier of Buchanan.

Expert Supervision
"The state and federal governments, through their cooperative extension service, not only furnish some expert supervision in the general conduct of the work but also, on request by the local committee, or agent send in men trained in special fields to help with difficult farm problems.

"The county agent plans his work with the guidance of the agricultural committee. They meet from time to time to go over problems and progress. To carry out the suggestions of the committee he makes farm visits, conducts demonstrations, holds other meetings with whole groups of farmers, keeps certain office days to meet callers there, writes circular letters as well as individual letters, answers telephone inquiries for information, etc.; he works with unorganized groups and individuals as well as with farm organizations. In fact, agriculture extension has probably been in the last 10 or 15 years the most potent agency, next to the school system, in bringing farmers together to act with some degree of unity and harmony for their common welfare. I make this statement advisedly, not only because of our many cases of united action by the farmers we worked with, but even more because of the hopeful start made for the future in our boys and girls work—in getting them to think and act together.

Supplies Information
"Another viewpoint or phase in the organization of the county agent's work is that of a clearing house for exchange of information and ideas and experiences on many different practices. If one farmer demonstrates that a certain way of doing a job is easier, safer, surer, more profitable, more desirable in any way—for instance making soy bean or sudan hay with the grain binder—the county agent passes this helpful information around.

"This contact works both ways—from farmers to experiment station. It works from the station to the farmer when county agent brings to his farmers the latest results of research—a reliable test for the presence of serious contagious diseases in livestock such as tuberculosis or contagious abortion; fundamental of a good chick diet, the ability of cod liver oil in absence of sunlight to prevent rickets; the fraud of so called cures for contagious abortion; a better strain or variety of grain such as 'barbless' barley; testing a soil for sourness to see whether it would need lime to grow alfalfa well; organization set up business practices, etc., fundamental to the permanent success of cooperative ventures.

"This contact works for the farmer from him to experiment station when he has problems such as new insect or disease pests that neither he nor the county agent can solve: A hog cholera scare in Bovina that the local veterinarian is not sure of and we get a state specialist who finds it to be hog flu. On the same trip he finds a mysterious malady in swine in Dale to be sunburn from wet pasture.

Find New Pest
"A new bug or worm is sent in for identification; a beetle scare in Maine is found to be the Rose Chaffer, usually not serious for long.

"Raspberry beds looked bad in Grand Chute and Greenville; we are afraid its dreaded anthracnose disease, but the plant disease specialist shows us the stunted growth is largely winter injury.

"A group of farmers around Kaukauna wants to start a cooperative; they own and operate cheese factory; the county agent sees their hopes and problems to the Dairy and Marketing Departments at the

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

THE ADMINISTRATION REPLIES
The notes and statements of the Administration on the debt question are a curious collection of documents. Foreign governments had addressed notes to our government asking for a review of the settlements and a postponement of the December payment. President Hoover's reply is to tell them in effect that they have addressed themselves to the wrong government. There are, it appears, two American governments situated at the two ends of Pennsylvania Avenue.

The Executive government, says the President, "ought recommend," but the Congressional government, not only has "the ultimate decision" but has taken possession of the machinery "for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken." At the moment, however, this machinery of investigation and recommendation does not happen to exist. Therefore, there is no American agency capable just now of discussing this international question with foreign governments.

We have here the record at absurdum of the system, which was imposed upon the American nation twelve years ago. Questions of the utmost consequence confront the country in its relation to the rest of the world. There is at stake a controlling element in the whole process of economic recovery, and the President of the United States proclaims to the world that no American authority now exists which can limit the constitutional power of the President to carry on diplomatic contacts or conversations with foreign governments. This declaration of the President-elect, made after consultation with the leaders of his party in Congress, should be read in the light of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has behind him a strong majority in both Houses of Congress. Mr. Hoover has no effective majority in either House. The impotence which President Hoover has advertised to the world, is therefore, the impotence not of the American government but of an Administration which is dying.

Yet although the Administration considers itself powerless to investigate the facts or to recommend action, it, nevertheless, has proceeded to prejudice the facts by setting up distinctions in the tone and to some degree in the substance of the replies to the debtor nations. Impotent to investigate the facts, between the debtors, giving sympathy to one and a cold shoulder to others. On what basis, pray, is this distinction set up? Has the Administration heard the case of Britain, France, Belgium and others, or has it not? If it has not, by what right does it play favorites and presume to inject into the already dangerous equilibrium of Europe the seeds of rivalry and discord among the nations?

It is all very well to say that we desire to negotiate separately with each of the debtors. It is a wholly different thing, a deeply dangerous and destructive thing, to approach such negotiations with preconceived notions and in a spirit of ostentatious discrimination. The debtors, even if they are to be heard separately, are entitled to be heard with equal fairness and with equal sympathy. The prejudices of individuals for one nation over another have no place in diplomacy and the attempt to discriminate between Britain on the one hand, France and Belgium on the other, before any of them have been heard, is capricious, unjust, and mischievous.

These men in Washington have short memories or they would recall their own experiences in attempting to differentiate between debtor nations. It has been one of the noble experiments of the last decade which has had a ludicrous result.

Originally, the money was loaned to these foreign governments on equal terms. When the Debt Funding Commission was created, it was still assumed that they would receive equal treatment. It was only when the actual negotiations came to pass that differentiation on the basis of "capacity to pay" became the American dogma on the debts.

Mr. Hoover was a member of the Funding Commission. He ought not to have forgotten what a complete failure was made of the attempt to judge separately each nation's "capacity to pay."

The solemn deliberations of the Commission resulted in decisions that Britain had a capacity to pay interest at 3.3 per cent but France had a capacity to pay only at 1.6 per cent; that Estonia and Hungary could pay at 3.3 per cent but Greece could pay only at 0.3 per cent; that Italy could pay 0.4 per cent but Yugoslavia could pay 1 per cent and Lithuania 3.3 per cent. The Debt Commissioners were, of course, guessing and in most cases their guesses have already been proved wrong. Yet apparently Mr. Hoover, on this point Britain is to receive flowers and sympathy whereas last time it was France. For all the scientific value there is in this principle, the State Department might as well revive the old Roman custom and instead of studying statistics consult the entrails of beasts.

The climax is reached in the contrast between Mr. Hoover's principles of 1918, 1921, and in November 1932. In 1931, Mr. Hoover took the initiative in demanding a postponement of all intergovernmental debts. He would not listen to the special pleas of France. The moratorium had to be general and equal all around. In 1932, when a request arrives for a continuation of this same moratorium, the Administration is on the highest principle opposed to general and equal treatment.

Is it any wonder that the whole world is bewildered and embittered and that American opinion, for lack of simplicity and realism and decisiveness in its leaders, is almost unmanageable? A policy of declared impotence, followed by actions based on prejudice and favoritism and contradictions is no way to protect the vital interests of a great people. The thing is a mess and there is the utmost need of a new deal.

Ex-Pick Pocket to Address Kiwanians

O'Malley is Veteran Conductor on This Line

Although Thomas J. O'Malley, lieutenant governor-elect of Wisconsin, travels through this city every week as conductor on a Chicago and Northwestern train only a few Appletonians have been able to congratulate him. O'Malley makes two or three night trips through this city each week on his runs between Milwaukee and points north, including Green Bay, but does not operate on regular schedule, according to railroad officials here.

O'Malley last week was welcomed by a large delegation of Green Bay residents on his arrival there on Train No. 101. He left on Train No. 216 Thursday afternoon, traveling through this city.

He has been coming through Appleton and Green Bay for the last 44 years, most of that time as a passenger conductor. On the left cuff

Get Investment Data From More Than One Source

Number of Recommendations Preferred, Says Prof. H. R. Doering

The folly of following implicitly the recommendations of one investment source to the exclusion of all others was stressed by Prof. H. R. Doering of the University of Wisconsin Extension division in his second lecture last evening at the Y. M. C. A. on "Managing Personal Investments." The series of six lectures, which are delivered on Monday evenings, are under auspices of the extension division and the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Investment information should be obtained from more than one recognized reliable source, and investors should than apply certain tests that can be made without any technical backgrounds, he pointed out. He suggested that perhaps the most unbiased opinions can be obtained from manuals, financial magazines, pocket manuals, services, and general bulletins.

To check up on the reliability of bond houses or brokers, he listed sources where the individual investor can obtain information about them. Such sources are: Securities department, Public Service Commission, Madison, Wis.; Investors' Protective bureau, 10 S. LaSalle-st., Chicago, Ill.; Better Business bureau, Milwaukee Association of Commerce, or the National Better Business bureau, Inc., Chrysler building, New York City; or local bankers, who may get in touch with banks in financial centers for such information.

For sources of information on investments, he listed newspapers, financial magazines, security manuals, bond houses and bond salesmen, bankers and speculative and statistical services.

Discussing the value of statistical services for 11 years before 1929, which period involved 46 major swings in the stock market, he stated that they were 30 per cent helpful, 48 per cent slightly helpful, 13 per cent neutral, 4 per cent slightly misleading, and 4 per cent misleading. Since 1929, however, they have usually been wrong, he added.

state for the study, evaluation, and coordination of medical service. That the professional education of physicians, dentists, pharmacists, and nurses be reoriented to accord more closely with present needs, and that educational facilities be provided to train three new types of workers in the field of health: namely, nursing attendants, nurse-midwives, and trained hospital and clinical administrators.

The committee was created in 1927 with Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, former president of the American Medical association, as chairman.

Two minority reports were presented along with personal dissenting statements from two individual members of the committee.

The principal minority report, signed by nine members and presented by Dr. Nathan B. Van Etten of New York, made seven recommendations, among them:

"That the corporate (i. e., organized) practice of medicine be vigorously opposed to wasteful, inimical to high quality, or productive or unfair exploitation of the medical profession."

HITS MAJORITY REPORT

Chicago.—(P)—The Journal of the American Medical association in its next issue, Dec. 3, will impute bias to the majority report of the committee on the costs of medical care, and support of the minority report which was signed by members of the American Medical association on the committee.

The editorial of the Journal, made public simultaneously today with the presentation of the report of the committee in New York, will say that the majority and minority reports "represent the difference between incitement to revolution and a desire for gradual evolution based on analysis and study."

The majority report of the committee urged that medical practice be rendered largely by organized groups associated with hospitals. The chief minority report recommended the opposite, that is, "that corporate practice of medicine be vigorously and persistently opposed."

"The recommendations of the majority will not come as a surprise to the thousands of physicians who have followed closely the trend of the studies as indicated by the reports published from time to time since 1927," the Journal will say.

"The director of its work, Harry H. Moore, Ph. D., published a book called 'American Medicine and the People's Health,' which revealed his personal bias for insurance schemes and, indeed, for governmental practice.

"So definite was the trend of the committee's studies in this direction that one must view the expenditure of almost a million dollars by the committee and its final report with mingled amusement and regret."

Key to Senate

Senator Key Pittman of Nevada will probably achieve a thwarted ambition in the next Congress, and perhaps even in the lame duck session. He has wanted to be president pro tem of the Senate, but Republican majorities have blocked him ever since 1919. Now it looks as if he is in at last.

Light Sentences for 25 Dry Law Violators

LaCrosse.—(P)—Light sentences were meted out to 25 persons who entered guilty pleas to prohibition law charges before Judge E. C. Johnson at the opening session of federal court here yesterday. There were 311 criminal cases pending. Those sentenced were:

Arthur Jarvis, Mosinee, possession, one hour in custody of marshal; Mike Ahles, Mosinee, manufacture, sale and possession, 10 days Marathon-co jail; Mrs. Mike Ahles, Mosinee, manufacture, sale and possession, 10 days, suspended.

Francis Depuis, Merrillan, possession, fined $20; Miles Ladu, Mosinee, sale and possession, fined $100 and costs; Charles Sherman, Wausau, transportation, fined $25; Frank A. Martin, Mosinee, possession of still and manufacture, 60 days suspended; John Kasten, Mosinee, possession of still and manufacture, six months suspended; Joe Oweski, Marathon, operation of still and manufacture, 30 days; Ed Abraham, Kendall, maintaining nuisance, 30 days suspended; Martha Koehne, Wausau, possession, fine of $25 suspended.

Urge Christmas Shoppers to Mail Packages Early

Postoffice Employees Prepare for Annual Rush Of Yule Season

Employees of Appleton postoffice are girding themselves for the annual rush of Christmas mail which will get underway shortly. Schedules are in the process of formation, and other work necessary to cope with the heavy influx of Yule mail is being arranged.

As in other years the U. S. Postal department is asking the public to "Ship Now and Mail Early for Early Delivery." Every effort is to be made to "clean house" in the postoffice by Christmas eve, because the office is to be closed Sunday and Monday, Dec. 25 and 26, with no deliveries on either day.

The use of a special-delivery stamp is the only method which will assure delivery on Christmas day or Monday, if mailed at the proper time, the department advises. When ordinary stamps are used for this service, the words "special delivery" must be written across the face of the letter or parcel.

Uninsured parcels eight ounces or less in weight may be mailed in street letter or package boxes at all classified stations and branches and at such numbered stations as are designated to receive parcels for Christmas mailing, the department advises.

Limit at Street Boxes
Parcels weighing over eight ounces can not be mailed at street boxes, but must be taken to the main postoffice or classified station or branch. Parcels containing meat, food products, cut flowers or other perishable matter should be mailed only at the main postoffice or one of the large classified stations.

Domestic third and fourth class matter may be sent C. O. D. from one money-order postoffice to another. Sealed domestic mail of any class prepaid at first-class rate of postage may also be sent C. O. D., as registered or unregistered mail.

Fees for all unregistered C. O. D. mail are as follows: 12 cents, when amount to be collected does not exceed $5; 17 cents, when the amount does not exceed $25; 22 cents, when amount does not exceed $50; 32 cents, not more than $11; 40 cents, when the amount does not exceed $150; 45 cents when the amount does not exceed $200. The C. O. D. fee also covers insurance for actual value against loss, lifting, damage or nonreceipt of returns.

Parcels of mailable merchandise may be sent (subject to certain limitations and conditions) by international parcel post to all foreign countries except Tristan Da Cunha, Mongolia, British Morocco, Rio de Ore, Rio Martin, Manchuria, Yemen and Andorra, the department says. These packages should be mailed only at classified stations.

Mrs. Garnier Hunts In Vain for Famous Coffee Percolator

Washington.—(P)—Mrs. Garnier's famous coffee percolator, the handsome one given her by Representative Kleberg, which bubbled in her capitol office all last session, has disappeared. For several days after arriving from Texas, Mrs. Garnier was too busy to make her customary coffee. And when today's brisk weather brought tantalizing thought of hot coffee—Mrs. Garnier hunted high and low, but no percolator could she find.

Gone, too, was the pendulum on the clock, and the electric cord from the pressing iron. Mrs. Garnier suspects souvenir hunters were at work during the summer.

Unofficial Committees To Plan Legislation

Warm Springs, Ga.—(P)—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said Monday after a visit to the cottage of President-elect Roosevelt, that he expected to set up several unofficial committees before the short session opened to begin the formulation of legislation on farm relief, beer, budget matters and the reorganization of governmental departments.

The senator was one of a large group of visitors who talked with Mr. Roosevelt during the morning. He returned to the cottage later for an afternoon conference on general legislative matters.

In the other group were Henry A. Wallace, an Iowa agricultural editor, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of New York, and M. L. Wilson, of the Montana State agricultural college. They were called to Warm Springs to discuss farm relief with the president-elect.

Sweet Aroma of Cakes Handicaps Trade Pupils

Students at Appleton vocational school are being especially handicapped this week in keeping their minds on classroom work due to the sweet aroma of fruit cakes and Christmas cookies which fill the building. Domestic science classes of Miss Mabel Burke are preparing the cakes and cookies in preparation of the Yule season. Other Christmas bakery projects also are being completed in that department.

Expect Many to Attend Chamber Charity Ball

Judging from the advance ticket sale the charity ball to be sponsored by Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Rainbow Gardens Friday evening will be well attended. The ticket committee announces proceeds of the dance will be turned over to relief agencies. A special program of entertainment is to be provided in connection with the dancing party.

The U. S. Naval Observatory reports that the measure of the curvature of the earth is said to be approximately eight inches per mile.

Suit Against Bank Settled Out of Court

Men Charged With Robbing Black Creek Institution Get $750 Each

A suit in which Larry Lawrence and Eugene H. Stewart asked $100,000 damages from the Bank of Black Creek, alleging they were falsely arrested and imprisoned as a result of the holdup of the bank on Nov. 8, 1929, has been settled on payment of $750 to each plaintiff with an additional allowance of $500 for attorney fees, it was disclosed in a stipulation filed in circuit court for Fond du Lac yesterday.

B. J. Zuehlke, president of Appleton State bank and president and director of the Black Creek institution, and Matt A. Schuh, cashier of the Appleton bank and director of the village institution, were named among the defendants in the action.

Arrested in 1929. The suit against the Bank of Black Creek and Andrew M. De Voursney, of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, grew out of the arrest of Lawrence in Outagamie county on Dec. 19, 1929, on a charge of being one of two men who held up the bank. Lawrence asked compensatory damages of $25,000 and punitive damages in like amount, claiming false arrest, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

Lawrence's complaint declared that at the time of the hold-up he was a representative of the United States National Adjustment company and in his position had business with various banks in the Fox river valley. The other defendant in the action was Ida Peters of Black Creek.

Don't Forget Bulk in Food, Says Circular

When there is less money to be spent for food, meals are likely to be lacking in the bulk that helps to remove waste matter from the body.

And so it is that this winter, more people than ever are noticing the headaches, sluggishness, and "fired feeling" that are symptoms of constipation.

"For greater bulk in your meals, eat your vegetables raw, instead of cooking them," is the suggestion made in the circular, "Keeping Well," prepared by home economics workers in the extension service of the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Fresh apples and dried prunes and raisins are other low cost foods which they recommend for giving bulk to winter meals, and for furnishing the organic acids that are helpful in overcoming constipation. Sauerkraut and buttermilk also contain these mildly stimulating acids.

Whole grains in the form of breads or cereals are helpful in eliminating waste material from the body.

Other aids in overcoming constipation, such as good physical habits, massage and proper exercise, are fully described in the booklet, "Keeping Well," which may be obtained by writing for it to the Bulletin Mailing Office at the Wisconsin college of agriculture at Madison. This leaflet is sent free of cost to residents of Wisconsin.

Seven Skating Rinks to Be Flooded This Week

Seven skating rinks in the city will be flooded within the next day or two, it was announced yesterday by Theodore Albrecht, street commissioner. This work will be done providing the weather remains reasonably cold. The rink in Jones park was flooded a few days ago, but it was found that the ground had not frozen sufficiently to hold water.

Rinks to be conditioned this week are located at the intersection of S. Outagamie and W. Spencer-sts in the Third ward; W. Packard-st ravine in the Fifth ward; Edison school grounds at the corner of E. North and N. Meade-sts in the First ward; E. Newberry-st in the lower Fourth ward; McKinley Junior high school grounds in upper Fourth ward; Erb park in the Sixth ward and Jones park.

Readings Selected by Declamatory Students

The five contestants in the Dame declamatory contest, to be held the evening of Dec. 5, at Appleton high school, have selected their readings. Miss Sylvia Warner will present "The Merry Merry Cuckoo" by Jeanette Marks, Miss Marie Ritter "The Fugitive from Finley's Alley" by Agnes Turnbull, and Miss Annette Plank "The Homeland" by Mable Shepherd. Miss Ruth Merkle's selection is "Beauty and the Jacobin" by Booth Tarkington, and Miss Mildred Eads will give "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" by Rudolph Besier.

The winner of the contest will compete in the Fox River declamatory contest at East Green Bay high school the afternoon of Dec. 7. The contestants are being coached by Miss Ruth McKennan.

Meeting, Cavanaugh on School Meet Program

A G. Meeting, county superintendent of schools, and J. F. Cavanaugh, superintendent of schools at Kaukauna, are on the program for the annual schoolmen's conference at Madison Thursday and Friday. Both men are scheduled to address sessions of the County Normal School Principals' association. Mr. Meeting on Thursday will discuss "The Relationship Between the County Superintendent and the County Normal and Mr. Cavanaugh on Friday will discuss "The High School and the County Normal. W. F. Hagman, principal of the Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna, is president of the state normal principals' group.

Tells What to Expect in Play

Know Something of Application of Technique, Says Prof. Cloak

F. Theodore Cloak, assistant professor of public speaking and dramatics, gave a talk before the Lawrens college students Monday morning at convocation in Memorial chapel in which he told what a "knowing audience" expects of a play and how the play, "Arms and the Man," presented by the Sunset Players last week, met these requirements.

He said the audience should know something of the application of technique in all branches of the play and should have a taste for more wholesome standards in theater. The American theater is slowly being recognized as an art form by other countries, he stated.

"Technique should be looked for in the writing, staging, directing and acting of a play in order to more fully enjoy it," Prof. Cloak said. "The audience should be able to pass critical judgment on whether a play has been written with a purpose and whether that purpose is successful; and whether it has artistic beauty, humor and effectiveness. Successful directing should show results in good lighting and focusing. Staging includes the most harmonizing colors in the sets. The acting should be judged for its characterization, appeal and interpretations of lines."

He brought out that "Arms and the Man," which was written by George Bernard Shaw, met all these requirements. All plays are considered from these standards before being selected to be presented by the Sunset Players, he said.

Dean to Give Third Lecture on Heating

Methods of heating public buildings economically will be discussed in the third of a series of lectures on heating and ventilation at Appleton vocational school at 7:30 Wednesday evening. The course is being offered here by University of Wisconsin Extension division in cooperation with the vocational school. C. L. Dean of the university engineering department is the instructor. The class is open for janitors, firemen and engineers in schools, churches and other public buildings.

ALL-BRAN STOPPED HIS SLEEPLESSNESS AND TIRED FEELING

Cereal Relieved His Constipation

Read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. Haraden:

"My system had been run down for quite some time. About three weeks ago, I started taking ALL-BRAN for breakfast. I had been unable to sleep nights, but now all I have to do is turn in, and before I know it, I am fast asleep.

"I used to have a tired feeling all day, but now that ALL-BRAN is in my home to stay, there will be no more tired feelings with me."—Mr. Carl Haraden, Main Street, Hamilton, Massachusetts.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking pills and drugs—often harmful? Just eat two tablespoons daily for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Production Staff Plays Big Part in Presenting Play

Little Theatre Opens Season Friday With "Poor Little Rich Girl"

It takes more than competent actors to make a play successful for the Little Theatre of the Fox River Valley, which opens its season at 8 o'clock Friday at Lawrence chapel with the unusual three-act play, "Poor Little Rich Girl."

In terms of the production staff it takes 46 workers "back stage," 95 yards of muslin, 20 gallons of paint, eight lusty hammer wielders on the construction crew, over 2,000 feet of lumber, 20 pounds of glue, feet upon feet of chicken wire, as well as hours of work making the necessary scenes weeks before the production is presented.

Since "Poor Little Rich Girl" from a technical standpoint is the most difficult play the Little Theatre has ever attempted, the production staff is the largest ever organized for one production. Friday night 19 persons will be working behind stage arranging scenery, lighting, the various "drops" or stage backgrounds, supervising scenery shifts some of which take less than two minutes, preparing make-up and overseeing the costumes of the actors.

Wednesday night at dress rehearsal the yards of muslin, palls of tacks and numerous lumber strips will take the form of Moorish arches, staircases, window seats and elevator doors. Silhouetted trees will stand in shadow as a background for one scene, the chicken wire will be transformed into realistic rocks and from the audience the effect will be the completed work of two months.

One of the interesting parts of scene shifting for this production is the use of "bird shifts" or a group of Little Theatre members who will work above the stage. They will lower and lift or "fly," as it is called, pieces of scenery through the air to enable, together with a floor crew moving scenes from the two sides of the stage, necessary two minute scene shifts. Part of these quick shifts is done while the curtain is open and the stage is in darkness for an instant.

Another outstanding part of this play is the orchestra, organized under the direction of Mary Jane Doherty. Other members of the orchestra include Mary Rebeck, Doris Toll, Carolyn Boettcher, Lucile Wichmann and Margaret Gile.

Production Staff

Members of the production staff include the following under the direction of Harold Hauert, who as manager has charge of all branches of back stage work from scene construction to lighting; James J. Mackesy, Jr., who designed the scenery and supervises the authenticity of the scenes; James Gmeiner, construction manager; Howard Horton, Harvey Kahler, Joseph Cannon, Harold Council, Genevieve Kronschabel, Mary Lou Mitchell, Betty Buchanan, Max Goeres, Mary Zelle, construction crew; Harold Council, stage manager, in charge of scene shifting; Max Goeres, Ebie Volkert, Helen Wolf, Jeanne DeBauer, Stansbury Young and Joseph Gilman, stage crew; grid crew, James Mackesy, Jere Ottman, James Gmeiner, Joseph Cannon, Stanley Zahrt, Harvey Kahler, lighting manager, William Springer and M. Catherine Carrier, assistants.

Betty Buchanan is chairman of the properties committee assisted by Annette Plank, Mary Lou Mitchell, Grayce Bilter, Jeanne Meyer, Roberta Burns. Costumes are in charge of Helen Paterson, chairwoman, Helen Bergman and Doris Gates. The committee in charge of make-up includes Frances Triggs, Vivian Wright, Ethel Stallman, Nellie Chamberlain and Lillian Mackesy.

Opening with scenes of San Francisco as one leaves for the island, Miss Porter showed scenes of Auckland, the largest city on the island, native men and women as they were years ago, and played several phonograph records of their songs.

She stated that her family was one of the 30 which originally colonized the island, having gone there from Nova Scotia after coming to North America from England. The majority of the white people on the island are of Scotch descent, she said.

Pictures of Zane Grey, novelist, catching huge trout, which strange enough are descendants of American trout from Idaho mountain streams, sheep raising and sheering, the mountains and resorts, and bird retreats made up the greater part of the three reels that were shown the Lions.

Board Seeks Ways to Cut Road Costs

Supervisors Involved in Discussion Over Highway Expenses

The Outagamie-co board this morning again became involved in a lengthy discussion of ways and means of lowering the highway costs for 1933 and thus, incidentally, lowering taxes.

A discussion started when F. O. Smith, Hortonville, asked the highway committee just how much lower its budget for 1933 was than for 1932. Arnold Krueger, chairman of the road body, explained that in 1932 a total of $119,674.35 was raised, while the amount asked for 1933 is $95,320.04 or $24,354.31 less.

When a communication from Hortonville revealed that that county does not raise a mill tax for highway purposes, several supervisors wanted to know why it was necessary for Outagamie-co to do so. Mr. Krueger and other members of the road committee explained that Outagamie-co's big costs were due to the fact that the county has 308 miles of road on its gravel trunk system, whereas Hortonville has but 16. Many other counties it was explained, have even fewer roads on the trunk system than Brown. This is one of the reasons for the high cost of highway maintenance, and improvements here, it was said.

The board finally voted to instruct the highway committee to make a trip to Brown and Shawano counties this afternoon to determine how much funds these counties are raising for road work, how much they receive from the state, and other facts that might help in solving the Outagamie-co problem.

Consider Budget Plan
The board this morning, after a short discussion, voted to name a special committee to study the suggestion of Supervisor Smith for appointment of a county budget committee. Under Mr. Smith's proposal the finance committee would be the budget committee and it would meet at least once a month. The county board, at this meeting, the heads of each department would be present to make his requests for the approaching year. The budget committee then would consider these requests, make up the budget, and present it to the county board at its first session.

How the $500 appropriation, made by the county board to the Outagamie-co unit of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk pool, was spent was explained to the board by the county board president, W. M. Singler. State president, explained that although he received $380 of the amount for his services and expenses he felt that the money had been spent in organization work because he had spent all his time doing that. He explained that this county was better organized than many others and that the head of the pool had been established in Appleton. He said despite the fact that he received $380 he was still not $300. He explained that he was paid only for gas and oil as expenses.

The county health committee in a report to the board, urged retention of the county nurse. Her many services in the past were briefly outlined and the report also stated that the fact that her services were needed especially in these times of stress and suffering.

Urge Retention
A committee of Kaukauna business men, including W. F. Ashe, Arthur Schmalz, Dr. G. J. Flanagan and Dr. G. D. Boyd appeared before the board and urged that the office of county nurse be not abolished. The speakers pointed to good work the nurse is doing and the necessity for continuing this health program. Mr. Ashe said the group represented a block of 40 Kaukauna businessmen who unanimously opposed the elimination of this office.

Supervisor R. C. Schultz's resolution, instructing the county clerk to call a school for town officials each spring to instruct them in the manner of filing poor claims, was adopted without comment. An offer from the Little Chute band to extend concerts at county institutions, whether the board made bond appropriations or not, was accepted.

After a short discussion the board also adopted a resolution providing that the county shall pay all towns, cities and villages, a specific amount for the feeding of transients. The amount will be determined later. This resolution was sponsored by Supervisor Anton Hansen, who declared that in the present time the system was unjust because Appleton sent all its transients to the county jail where the county cared for them whereas other villages, cities and towns were forced to keep these transients at their own expense or turn them out without a place to sleep without anything to eat.

Campbell Store to Open Here Saturday

Campbell's Dollar Stores, Inc., will open a store at 214 W. College street Saturday. The store was announced by Royland Campbell, president of the corporation, who is here handling details of the opening. The store will do a specialty business in wearing accessories above and below the dollar mark. Mr. Campbell said.

The store is the sixth in Wisconsin owned by the corporation. Saturday will mark the fifth anniversary of the opening of the Oshkosh and other stores are located at Neenah, Waupaca, Wausau, and Beaver Dam.

2 Divorces Granted In Municipal Court

Two divorces were granted by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Francis Hughes, 30, Milwaukee, was granted a divorce from her husband James A. Hughes, 31, address unknown, on a charge of desertion. This couple was wed in New York city on March 1, 1927, and separated June 5, 1927. Mrs. Irene H. Meyer, 31, Greenville, was granted a divorce from her husband, Lester J. Meyer, 38, Appleton, on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Meyer charged her husband with habitual drunkenness and he did not contest the suit. She was awarded custody of three minor children and $30 per month for their support and $20 per month alimony. The Meyers were wed June 24, 1918, at Greenville, and separated Oct. 22, 1932.

Charge Beloit Man Had Stolen Goods In His Possession

Kenneth Hamm to be Turned Over to Portage-co Officials

Kenneth Hamm, Beloit, was being held in the county jail here this morning pending the arrival of officers from Portage who will take him there to face charges of having stolen property in his possession. Hamm was arrested yesterday by Waupaca-co officials after his car figured in an accident on a county road and in the investigation a quantity of materials stolen in a recent burglary of the Chicago and Northwestern depot at New London were discovered.

According to Sheriff John Lappen, the burglary of the New London depot occurred early the morning of Nov. 19 and the burglars took several cases of curtains, draperies and other cloth articles. They also broke open several slot machines and took the coins they contained, he said.

Hamm was turned over to Outagamie-co officials this morning because the burglary occurred in Outagamie-co. However, Hamm denied knowing anything about the burglary, insisting he purchased the stolen goods from a man whose name he didn't know. He said the transaction took place at a Portage-co roadhouse and inasmuch as this was all the information that could be obtained Sheriff Lappen decided to turn Hamm over to that county for prosecution.

College to Furnish Snow Shoveling Jobs For Unemployed Men

Arrangements have been made between F. A. W. Hammond of the city department of public relief and R. J. Watts, business manager of Lawrence college, to provide men with work this winter with snow removal on the Lawrence college grounds. In past years a city tractor was hired to carry the school plow. This winter the snow will be removed by men with shovels. Money which was used for renting the tractor will be used to hire about a dozen men. The equipment will be furnished by the college.

Finger to Speak at Kenosha Club Meet

Harold Finger, state secretary of the Wisconsin Junior Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Appleton organization, will speak with other state officers at a meeting of the Young Men's Business club of Janesville at Kenosha Wednesday evening. This meeting is one of a series planned by state officers of the junior chamber in an effort to interest present organized young men's clubs throughout the state in chamber activities with the view of having these groups become affiliated with the junior chamber.

35 Hear Lecture on Pulp, Paper Materials

Thirty-five operators employed in various paper and pulp mills in this vicinity heard a lecture on "Pulp and Paper Materials" by L. J. McNamara, itinerant instructor of Appleton vocational school, Monday evening. The lecture was illustrated with a motion picture on "Wood Wisdom." More lectures on the same subject will be given by Mr. McNamara in the future.

Althouse, Noted Tenor, Kept Surprise Engagement

Paul Althouse, the young American tenor to hold sway for 10 years as one of the leading tenors of the Metropolitan Opera company in New York City, and who will appear here in concert on the Community Artist Series Thursday evening at Lawrence Memorial Chapel, has had some curious and interesting experiences in his career. Not the least of these occurred in the window of a curio shop when he actually informed himself of a forthcoming concert, which a few minutes previous he had not known was scheduled. This somewhat ironic sentence deserves an explanation.

On the last Australian concert tour taken by Mr. Althouse in 1925, when he was returning to the United States, he arranged to have certain letters and packages sent to him to Honolulu, the ship's port of call. It was about 6 o'clock in the evening when the ship made fast and the young tenor bounded off quickly to Young's hotel to get his correspondence. By mere chance and curiosity he stopped a minute to look into the window of a curio shop not far from the hotel, and as he was about to turn away he saw a window card on the side of the wall showing his picture, which informed the passerby, of which he happened to be one at this particular time, that Paul Althouse would appear there in recital two days

Two Sentenced in Federal Court for Automobile Theft

Jack Meyer, Jay E. Christian, Arrested Here, Get Six Months

Jack Meyer and Jay E. Christian, who gave their addresses as Monticello, arrested here last spring on burglary charges, pleaded guilty yesterday in federal court at Milwaukee of transporting a stolen car from one state to another and drew six months' sentences each.

Meyer and Christian were arrested near their shack along a river at Stevensville, Minn., they had been living for several weeks. Charles Steidl, motorcycle officer, saw the men drive out of a side road one night without any lights. He started an investigation and finally, with Sheriff John Lappen and Undersheriff Edward Lutz, lay in wait for the men. They previously had searched the cabin and found groceries and other small articles. The men admitted the burglaries of groceries and the fact that the car they were driving had been stolen in Minneapolis. They were turned over to federal agents for prosecution on the car theft charge.

Arrested more than a year ago on a charge of stealing from the mails, Herman Pietsch, former assistant postmaster at Milwaukee, will go to trial in federal court on Dec. 12. He pleaded not guilty at his arraignment yesterday.

Mrs. Rachel Kaquatosh, 24, Meenominie Indian woman, pleaded not guilty to a charge of slaying an Indian child, who is to try immediately after the Pietsch case is completed. She also was arraigned in Milwaukee.

The arraignment and trial of Omer M. Kiley, De Pere banker, charged with misappropriation of bank funds, was postponed to the week of Dec. 12. Joseph H. Taylor, Green Bay banker who faces similar charges, will be arraigned at Green Bay, Dec. 9.

Lions to Present Canes to Blind Directors of Club Decide It Will Not Hold Christmas Party

Appleton Lions club will present blind people in the city and county with canes on Christmas day, the canes being part of a national program whereby auto drivers may recognize blind persons, crossing streets and exercise extra precaution. The practice has been adopted in eastern cities with much success and has been considered by the local club for some time.

The decision to present the canes as Christmas gifts was made by Lions directors last night at a meeting at Conway hotel. J. R. Whitman is chairman of the blind committee. Directors of the Lions also decided to have the club take part in the joint forum meetings of the chamber of commerce, but decided not to hold the annual Christmas party. The club will investigate the report that band work in the schools might be dropped as an economy move.

Heilig at Plumbing Meeting in Oshkosh

Plans for reorganization of instruction material in itinerant plumbing circuits were discussed at a meeting of vocational school directors at the Oshkosh school yesterday afternoon. Herb Heilig, director of the Appleton institution, attended the meeting. The group also discussed new circuits for the coming year. Other directors were present from Sheboygan, Marinette, Manitowish, Two Rivers, Fond du Lac and Green Bay.

Discuss Reductions in Policemen's Pay

Reductions in the salaries of police and fire department employees were discussed at a meeting of the police and fire commission yesterday afternoon. The mayor suggested to the board that all salaries be cut, but no definite decision was reached. A second meeting will be held tonight.

Mexico Bans Him

The Rev. Frank W. Creighton, above, Protestant Episcopal Missionary Bishop of Mexico, was denied admission to that country when he tried to make his periodical visit. Several other American Protestant clergymen are expected to fall under a similar ban under the religious law of 1927.

Fifth Ward Club Favors 12 Wards

Resolution Approving Proposed Redistricting Is Adopted

Three resolutions, concerning city representation on the county board, music in the schools, and concerts by the high school band, were adopted by the Fifth Ward Voters' club at a meeting held at Washington school Monday evening.

The resolution dealing with the redistricting of the city, to be sent to the common council, suggested that each of the six wards in the city be divided into two, with one alderman for each ward instead of two. Objecting to the proposal made recently that the aldermen also serve as supervisors, the Fifth Ward group favored one supervisor for each ward in addition to the 12 aldermen.

The continuance of the school music program was advocated in a second resolution, and in a third the club members ask the board of education to permit the Appleton high school band to play public concerts at least once a month. It was felt that music is a desirable part of every child's education, and that as long as the children are learning to play they should be given an opportunity to demonstrate to the public their progress in their field.

Autumn Weather to Continue Wednesday

Balmy breezes from the sunny south which last night brought relief from the moderate cold wave in this vicinity will continue to blow tonight and Wednesday, the weatherman says.

Ideal autumn weather prevailed in Appleton today as the mercury climbed to 45 degrees above zero at noon, the highest noon temperature recorded in the past three weeks. At 6 o'clock this morning the mercury registered 30 degrees above zero, two degrees below the freezing point, thus setting a new high record for morning temperatures in the past three weeks.

Sky will be clear tonight and Wednesday, and there will be no change in temperature, the weatherman says. Similar predictions have been forecast for most of this section of the state, but light rains will fall in the lake regions, he says.

Report Total of $16,223 in Drive For Relief Funds

Expect to End Campaign In City With Final Report Thursday

A total of $16,223.20 was reported at the meeting of workers in the Appleton Welfare and Relief council drive at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, according to Judge Fred V. Heinemann, chairman of the drive and of the council, and Gustave Keller, Sr., chairman of the council finance committee.

Judge Heinemann this morning pointed out that the committee in charge of the drive is well pleased by the results. For comparison, he pointed out that in the drive a year ago, when the same amount of time had elapsed, a total of $17,383 had been raised.

On Thursday the workers will meet for their final reports. At that time, Judge Heinemann said, it is expected that the drive will surpass the total amount raised at the end of the drive in 1931, which was $19,600. To meet an effort to make made to bring the total to the sum of $25,000, Judge Heinemann said, because the council is seeing every day the increasing needs over those experienced during the last year.

Hopes of the committee for reaching the $25,000 goal are based on the fact that seven of the eight divisions have not yet made complete reports, while two divisions have only made surface reports and the bulk of their efforts are still to be reported.

Jaces Finish Plans For Charity Dance

Final plans were made for the Charity dance to be sponsored by Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the committee in charge last night in the chamber office in the Zuehlke building. The dance is to be given Friday evening at Rainbow Gardens, and the entire proceeds will be turned over to relief agencies for aiding indigent families of the city.

The committee in charge is composed of Harold Miller, general chairman, John Miller Babcock, Walter Brummund, George Ritten, Dr. Alvin Zwarg, Dr. A. L. Koch, in high, William Wang, Jr., Jack Harnett, Wilmer Jernigan, William Van Dyck, H. E. Williamson and Elmer Fumal.

Discuss Programs at Scout Leaders Meeting

Various phases of boy scout work, especially that of honor ceremonies and troop program building, were discussed at a meeting of valley council scout field commissioners at a local restaurant Monday evening. M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, discussed these programs with the group. Efforts are being made to assign certain phases of this work to various groups, in a program of specialization. Each group will be responsible for putting in effect programs which will be far reaching and widespread in scope.

Need Colder Weather To Flood Ice Rinks

Ice rinks cannot be flooded until the weather becomes colder. Theodore Albrecht, street commissioner, announced this morning, in response to a number of requests for the immediate preparation of city rinks. While there have been several cold days, the ground is not sufficiently frozen to make flooding advisable. Mr. Albrecht points out: As soon as weather permits street department workers will flood rinks in the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards. The flooding of the Jones Park and Atlantic rinks is being done by the park board employees.

Continue Treatments Of Toxin-Antitoxin

Toxin antitoxin, diphtheria preventive, will be administered at three schools this week, Edison, St. Theresa and Sacred Heart. The second treatment will be given at Edison school at 9:30 Wednesday morning and first treatments at the same hour at St. Theresa school, Thursday and Sacred Heart school, at 9:30. Any preschool children in the vicinity of Edison school who did not receive the first treatment may report at the clinic at 9:30.

Many New Log Cabins Appearing in America

Chicago — (AP) — More log cabins have been built this year than at any time since "Abe Lincoln" was a rail splitter. Harry L. O'Brien of Columbus, Ohio, told a group of agricultural engineers today. It is part of the "back-to-the-farm" movement, caused by unemployment.

An agricultural writer, O'Brien said he had seen new log cabins from the Ohio river to the wilds of Ontario and that they extend as far west as Kansas and Oklahoma. "Since 1930 millions of jobless have left the cities," he declared. "Most of them made homes on marginal lands, where there were many vacant houses. For many it was a return to places they left during the industrial boom starting with the war."

O'Brien deplored the economic situation that forced families to live in abandoned houses or to erect hurriedly some type of rough shelter. In Oklahoma, he said, the dug-

Offer 9 Prizes In Christmas Seal Poster Contest

Nine prizes are being offered to Appleton senior and junior high school students for the best posters entered in a contest being conducted by the newly organized Outagamie Health association. This association is conducting an independent Christmas seal campaign in Appleton this year and all of the proceeds will be kept in Appleton to be expended in a year-around health program. The Appleton Women's club is conducting the sale. The new organization is a combination of the health activities of the Women's club and the Outagamie County Medical society.

All posters entered in this contest must be in by Dec. 1 and they will be judged on Dec. 2. Judges are: Mrs. Mark Catlin, Mrs. Evangeline Freeman Kitson and Mrs. Chris Mullen. Six prizes are being offered to senior high school students and three to junior high school students.

Neenah, Appleton Hunters Arrested

Possession of Fawn Deer Result in Fines of $50; Costs

Four Appleton men and four from Neenah were among the 13 hunters arrested in Marinette-co over the weekend charged with game violations.

The Appleton men, Clarence Coenen, route 1, Emerald Blomann, 119 S. Locust-st., Marvin Plang, 6 Sherman-pl and Elmer Sedo, not listed in the Appleton directory, were arrested on a thrilling 80-mile-an-hour chase south of Crivitz. The chase started about 10 o'clock Sunday night when the men refused to stop at the request of game wardens who were searching other cars.

Taken before Justice H. S. Duquaine at Crivitz Monday morning, Coenen pleaded guilty of possession and transportation of a fawn deer found in the car and was fined $50 and costs, while Sedo, Plamann and Blomann paid the costs in the case and were released. Their four rifles were seized and confiscated.

The four Neenah men, Louis Neabing, Bennett Whitman, Leonard Koepke and Ed Schultz, were arrested Sunday morning outside of Wausaukee when the same wardens stopped and searched their car and found a fawn deer in their possession. Neabing paid a $50 fine and costs before Police Justice Werner N. Schomaker at Marinette Monday morning, while Whitman, Koepke and Schultz were assessed only the costs.

See Farmers Raising More Barley for Beer

A new ray of hope appears today on the clouded horizon of Outagamie-co farmers with the announcement from Madison that the new strain of smooth-awn barley, known as Pedigree 38, developed and perfected by the University of Wisconsin experiment station agronomy staff, is especially fitted for making "good beer."

Gustave A. Sell, Outagamie-co agent, said today that he has been urging farmers for two years to adopt this new type of barley, and that already 200 farmers have adopted the crop and found it beneficial. Mr. Sell predicted a tremendous increase in the barley crop of Outagamie-co should "good beer" really become a reality.

The new variety, developed after 12 years of experimentation, has passed rigid brewing and malt tests in Milwaukee and Chicago, is exceptionally virile, entirely free from disease, easier to handle and larger yielding than the Oederbrucker barley, used for years in beer making.

See Increased Acreage
Farm leaders at Madison see a greatly increased acreage and higher prices for 1933, especially in the event that "beer comes back."

Brewers throughout the nation have been notified of the new development and have urged its production by farmers.

The new Pedigree 38 barley was officially announced about two months ago. Shortly after, samples were sent to the Wahl-Heines Institute of Fermentology, Chicago, for brewing tests. The reports were encouraging. The new strain of barley was as good for beer making as the old Oederbrucker, for years the standard beer barley.

Pabst Tests Successful
Samples also were sent to the Pabst Brewing Co., Milwaukee, where a thorough brewing and malt test was made on quantities ranging from 500 to 1,000 bushels, and the results were similarly encouraging. The Pabst company recently spent nearly $1,000,000 setting its plant in readiness to resume operation in the event sale of beer is legalized.

The new barley is one of the five crops being accorded special honors at the 1932 International Hay and Grain show held in connection with the International Live Stock exhibition.

Meeting Tonight of Board and Council

The joint meeting of the school board and the common council to discuss the school budget will be held at 7:30 Tuesday evening at city hall instead of tomorrow night, as originally planned. If there is sufficient time the council will work on its budget, but if the joint meeting takes the greater part of the evening the council will hold its budget meeting Wednesday evening.

Battle Nears Over County Agent's Job

Fight Also Expected Over Retention of Demonstra- tion Agent, Nurse

An indication of the fire that is smoldering beneath the surface at the courthouse this week was given yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the county board when Supervisor F. O. Smith, Hortonville, warned the board not to try to evade the will of the people. Mr. Smith was referring to a group of petitions, signed by more than 1,700 persons, asking a referendum on the questions of continuing the office of county agent, home demonstration agent, nurse, and special aid to fairs, bands and associations.

Despite the first rumblings, however, the fight was averted when the board decided to take up all the matters as a special order of business Wednesday morning and to continue on the subject until it had been thoroughly discussed and settled. When the county clerk pointed out that he also had a large group of petitions from citizens asking that these be continued, a special committee was appointed to examine all the petitions to determine their legality. This committee will report Wednesday morning.

Recommend Retention

The agricultural committee yesterday recommended that both the offices of county agent and county home demonstration agent be continued. It was pointed out that both are doing important work that should be finished. The benefits resulting to the farmers, their home life, their families and their happiness were outlined briefly by the committee in its report.

The committee pointed out that by strict economy and a curtailment of effort the amount needed to operate the county agent's office next year could be cut in half to $1,500. By practicing the same economy and curtailment the amount needed for the home demonstration agent could be cut to $1,050. The committee pointed out. Thus, the body showed, both jobs could be continued, at a saving and without the loss of the benefits resulting from the work of the officers. The committee, however, did not ask for an appropriation, leaving that matter open with the board.

A communication from the Seymour Bar association pointed out that no appropriation was being sought from the county this fall for the 1933 fair due to the "depressing conditions." The communication pointed out that it was doubtful if a 1933 fair would be held, but that the matter would be decided at a meeting of the directors in December.

61 Counties Adopt Accounting System

More Governmental Units Should Take Same Step, Says Alliance

Madison—(P)—Sixty-one counties and 89 cities of Wisconsin have adopted the state system of uniform accounting, the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance said today in urging more governmental units to make such a system a step towards economy.

The alliance said "true economy implies an evaluation of expenditures relative to the quality or quantity of services or goods purchased."

"We cannot get a true statement of governmental cost by merely adding expenditures," it said. "Costs should be determined on a unit basis which gives weight to the value of the service or good received. This does not mean the continuance of useless, unnecessary or extravagant services."

The statutes provide for a uniform system of municipal accounting and auditing but adoption of the system is not mandatory. A comprehensive plan has been evolved by the state tax commission which requires that its methods of accounting be followed after the system is adopted. The alliance expressed the belief that "in this way uniformity of municipal accounting is assured under centralized direction and supervision, and the local governmental unit knows that it can receive continuous supervision of its records."

"The advantages of the state system of uniform accounting," the alliance said, "are that it provides a centralized record of financial transactions; gives information on current flow of cash; permits the public to judge the efficiency and fidelity of officials; gives the information for use in planning for future operations and the curtailment of activities; and gives experienced figures for the preparation of the budget."

"The local units of government in Wisconsin have available this necessary tool for good government. It is obvious that in times of depression, accurate audits are as important as ever. It is suggested that this year, municipalities ought not change their wise practice of having their audits made by competent and experienced auditors, but if saving is desirable it can be made by limiting the audit to the principal departments of the local government."

Can Talk, Anyway

Jackson, Mich. — Although three Michigan state prison inmates couldn't convince various circuit judges of their innocence they are pretty good talkers after all. They won a 2 to 1 verdict in debate with a Detroit debating team. The inmates argued for immediate payment of the soldier bonus.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

Nickel Comes Into Its Own Again in America

New York — (P) — The nickel is back—this time you can buy almost anything in the line of food; much in amusement; considerable in clothing and incidentals, and miles of travel.

In New York and in almost any American city the nickel will purchase pre-war values today, and it has more appeal because the range of articles obtainable is wider.

In food you may obtain carrots sufficient to feed six persons; you may satisfy the potato appetites of a dozen, and you may select almost any variety of preserved vegetables and relishes in five-cent containers. In some restaurants an entire meal may be had for a lone alloy. On Fifth-ave in stores whose fronts are landmarks, a sandwich may be had for 5 cents, and a half-pound of chocolates is the same price. The nickel cup of coffee has become an institution.

As for amusement, many motion picture houses are showing for a nickel "the same attraction" your neighbor may have paid $1.50 to see when it opened a few months ago. In some "ten-cents-a-dance" places the price of a spin around the floor has been halved, and in an occasional shooting gallery you can bring the butt of the best gun in the house to your shoulders for 5 cents.

Uncle Sam himself will provide hundreds of pamphlets of an instructive nature for the same price. In clothing and incidentals there are these to be considered:

On Broadway a ciavat may be had, in Fifth-ave a woman's handkerchief—guaranteed to be pure linen—is obtainable, and socks and garters are plentiful.

You may purchase 30 yards of darning wool.

The nickel cigar a vice-president day-dreamed about years ago also is on the market. You even may get two of them.

In the suburbs you can contract by the week to have a suit pressed and delivered for 5 cents a day, and you may park your automobile all day for the same price.

Not least, there threatens a full-fledged controversy over the nickel when beer comes back. Some brewers say the schooner should bring 10 cents but the old-time politician expresses doubt. He argues that the public thinks only of 5-cent beers.

Many cities have the 5 cents fare for surface, elevated and subway travel. In New York, administration after administration has fought for the retention of such a system.

You may board a train in the very upper reaches of the city, speed 50 and 60 miles an hour, through the Bronx, under Manhattan and the East River to Brooklyn and Coney Island.

It is a 26-mile route, the longest subway ride in the world. And it costs—five cents!

Tommy Opple, Hollister, was arrested by a forest ranger for removing and destroying a fire lane gale in the town of Wolf River, Langlade-co. Judge A. N. Whiting, the commission said, sentenced Opple to a 10-day jail term on a charge of wrongfully destroying forest protection equipment.

This was the first test of the commission's authority since it undertook the construction of single purpose fire lanes in the unemployment relief program this year and established a precedent in future consideration of the state's right to build such roads, the commission said.

Purchases of Seals Deductible From Tax

Madison—(P)—Purchases of Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas seals are deductible from federal income tax returns, A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue for the Eastern district of Wisconsin, ruled Monday.

"The Christmas seal campaign against tuberculosis comes under the class of permissible deductions described as contributions to religious, educational and charitable institutions," he said.

RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Out Poisons, That Cause Torturing Stiffness, Swelling and Lameness

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

You cannot get rid of rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, Lumbago, Stiffness, lame knotted muscles and painful swollen joints till you drive from your system the trialing poisons that cause rheumatism. That's why external treatments only give temporary relief. What you need is RU-MA, the new internal medicine that acts on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination, these dangerous poisons.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU-MA eases pain first day, and so quickly and safely frees rheumatic sufferers from all their stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain of rheumatism that it is recommended by druggists everywhere.

Schlitz Bros. urges every sufferer to get a $1.00 bottle of RU-MA today, and will return the purchase price to any dissatisfied user.

Schneider Favors Immediate Action On Beer Measure

Early Vote Will Defeat Die-Hards. Appleton Man Believes

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Announcement that the Ways and Means committee of the House of Representatives would open hearings on a beer bill the second day of the short session stirred the modificationist congressmen already here, including Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton, into immediate conferences on plans to get the bill out of committee and passed by the House before Christmas.

Rep. Schneider is convinced that if the House will pass a modification measure promptly, die-hard days in the Senate will be unable to filibuster it to death in this probably the last lame-duck short session in history in which a filibuster would be possible.

"If the Democrats stick to their party pledge for immediate modification, and if the House does not delay, a beer bill can be enacted in the short session," Rep. Schneider said.

He also advocates prompt passage of a resolution submitting the question of repeal of the 18th amendment so that the state legislature meeting in January can act upon it. He points out that many of the legislators will have adjourned by the time the probable special session could pass the repeal.

Rep. Schneider also urges speed on the beer bill because many states would also have to modify their prohibition enforcement laws to accord with the federal law, if they choose to do so in order to legalize beer and in order to add to the federal revenue from the proposed taxation of beer.

Southern Democrats, who have always until this year been prohibitionists, are joining the demand to speed in modifying the Volstead act so beer can be sold and taxed. If most of them stand by their party platform, they and the eastern and northern wet Democrats and the wet Republicans could certainly rush a bill through the House.

More obstacles will be met in the Senate in the forms of such dry senators as Borah of Idaho, Brookhart of Iowa, and Howell of Nebraska. But Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, chairman of the Judiciary committee, which will handle the bill in the Senate, has come out for modification.

If the beer-legislation bill is combined with the beer-tax bill, it might go to the Finance committee in the Senate, which is headed by that unalterable dry, Sen. Reed Smoot of Utah, who will retire from Congress as the result of defeat by a Democrat to direct the Mormon church next March 4.

Anyhow, the wets are feeling much happier as they flock into Washington for the beginning of the session, and as President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt told friends during his visit here that he hoped for a beer bill during the short session.

The other Wisconsin congressman who arrived early during the past week, however, was not so happy, as he was Rep. James A. Fear of Hudson, still a dry.

Judge Irvine L. Lenroot of Superior will soon have to help determine, along with the other judges of the U. S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, whether or not the flexible tariff provisions of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law are constitutional.

Sears, Roebuck and company has brought a suit involving the constitutionality of provision under which the President can raise or lower any tariff by 50 per cent or less upon recommendation of the Tariff commission.

The lower courts have decided the case adversely to the government, and the appeals court will have the next say. Then, undoubtedly, the Department of Justice predicts, it will go on to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Maj. Alvin Reis was here this week arguing that the Supreme Court of the United States has jurisdiction to take an appeal in the famous Wisconsin Telephone company rate case. If the court takes jurisdiction, the case will probably be argued in February.

The Perlex company of Milwaukee, formerly the Rasline Radiator company, has lost its fight against paying Uncle Sam an additional $3,010.65 in income taxes for the year 1925, under a decision just promulgated by the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals. Judge Stephen McMahon of Milwaukee wrote the opinion holding that the government, not the Wisconsin concern, was right.

The government has bought 4134 acres of land in Price county from the Wisconsin Central Railway company for $6,614.

Evan Albert Lewis of Friendship has accepted an appointment as a second lieutenant in the field artillery reserves, the War department announces.

Dairy products showed a big shrinkage in income they produced for the farmer this year, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The gross income from dairy products this year is estimated at $1,130,000,000, as compared with $1,167,000,000 last year, a reduction of nearly a half-billion dollars. The 1932 income from dairy products is just half what it was three years ago.

Milk production on farms in 1931 is estimated at 101,815,000,000 pounds, as compared with 99,705,000,000 pounds in 1930 and 98,782,000,000 in 1929. About 2,807,000,000 pounds of milk are also produced annually in towns, villages, and rural places not classed as farms.

Of the 1931 total, it is estimated that 25,398,000,000 pounds was fed to calves, used for making farm butter or consumed by the farmers' families. This left 76,417,000,000 pounds available for sale as milk or cream, and of this quantity about 34,973,000,000 pounds was skimming on the farms for sale of the butterfat, about 6,943,000,000 pounds was retained locally by producers, and about 34,501,000,000 pounds was delivered to creameries, condenseries, cheese factories, milk receiving stations, or marketed through other wholesale outlets.

Indication that the advocates of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway are going to fight to the last ditch, even in the face of the discouraging prospects for ratification of the treaty during the short session is contained in the "hot statement" issued by Charles P. Craig, executive director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, of which Wisconsin is a member.

The opposition testimony is "a cleverly fabricated facade of argument built upon a tissue of exploded theory and disproven statistics," Craig said when the Senate Foreign Relations sub-committee recessed after hearing opposition witnesses.

"Advocates of the St. Lawrence seaway have found encouragement from the hearings this week," Craig continued. "We have seen the treaty opposed on grounds of the most palpable absurdities. . . .

"Our opposition comes solely from three forms of existing monopolies which now maintain a throttle hold upon the transportation of the Middle West to and from the Atlantic. Witnesses have been railroad protagonists; representatives of certain seaboard ports and representatives of lake shipping."

"The board alignment of conflicts on the one side, forty millions of American citizens whose economic welfare is adversely affected by the very conditions which these opposing interests seek to preserve. On the other side is this group whose basic motive is one of selfish commercialism."

"The producer in industry and agriculture of the great heart of America is fighting for an outlet to the sea."

Schedule First of Discussion Meetings

The first series of round table discussions on various labor problems will take place at 7:30 next Monday evening at Appleton vocational school. It was announced today. Final plans for a program of successive weekly meetings for round-table discussion groups were made at the last session of Appleton Trades and Labor council.

Members of the committee in charge of programs at the weekly sessions are: Samuel Sigman, chairman, Postmaster Emmerly Greunk, Adolph Guver, Carl Bertram and C. T. Mace.

Catarrhal Deafness Or Head Noises

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, you should know that these distressing symptoms may frequently be overcome by this simple home treatment.

Secure from Schlitz Bros. Co. or your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength). Take this home and add 4 pint hot water and a little sugar. One tablespoonful four times a day should quickly and completely relieve distressing head noises and deafness due to catarrh, loss of smell and taste, and dropping mucous. If nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are catarrhal, there must be many whose hearing Parmit could help.

Drive the chills away with WINTERKING

SURE steer clear of any place where I see a load of this new Winterking Coal going in. . . I found out from experience that it is the hottest stuff this side of Hades.

You'd think anything that hot would burn itself up in a hurry. On the contrary, this Winterking seems to burn for ages and what an intense heat it throws off hour after hour!

From what I hear it doesn't require any special firing instructions and takes very little attention because it lasts so long and leaves so little ashes.

If you want to be nice and warm—try a ton.

AMERICAN WRITERS ABROAD, 1776 AND 1932

Ex-Mayor Walker, just before departing for the French Riviera, stated that an American magazine had offered him $50,000 to write his autobiography. The land that produces Burgundy is supposed to stimulate a writer's imagination and drive his wrist. At least a great many writers seem to favor France as their abode as they prepare their children of fancy or reality for public introduction. No one will suggest that Mr. Walker went to France to write merely because one of the finest autobiographies in our language was written in that country by an American. For Benjamin Franklin didn't go to France on a lark but when he went, stayed there nine long years diligently applying his unusual talents to the difficult cause of the American colonies in procuring for them men, money, material and other forms of support, and filling in his dull hours writing his own history. There is much of contrast but little of comparison between Mr. Walker and Mr. Franklin.

And yet Mr. Walker might find a great deal in Franklin's writings to form the basis of after-dinner bon mots though he could hardly be expected to take the sayings of Poor Richard to heart.

Mr. Franklin wrote in his quaint way: "There are three faithful friends, an old wife, an old dog and ready money." Mr. Walker might consider modernizing this statement, and simplifying it, by just limiting it to ready money.

It was Franklin who wrote: "Early to bed, and early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise," and while Mr. Walker would regard that statement as useless as the Golden Rule, his eye might linger a little longer and then roam the ceiling in melancholy reflection at this: "Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other," and this other, "It is hard for an empty sack to stand upright."

Aye, there are things anyone may learn reading Franklin, nor would Mr. Walker be the only one to almost feel the language used by rare old Ben was meant in a personal sense and the writer of the simple but whetted words stood beside one's chair chiding him.

Franklin, who loved the truth however much it cut or may have pointed to moral squalor, lived a constant specimen of Cromwell's order to the artist, "Paint me as I am, warts and all." Perhaps Franklin would be too genuine, too unaffected, for this day and Mr. Walker, bending low and gracefully from the waist and ready with the soft and appropriate word might fit the picture better. Old Franklin shuffled along in trustful simplicity seeking out the candid, guileless and sincere, while Gotham's ex-mayor struts the boulevard in sartorial splendor, flashy, garish and gaudy both in appearance and sentiment.

Turgot wrote of Franklin: "He has torn the lightning from the sky, seizes from kings." What could a modern Turgot write of Mr. Walker but "He ran—under fire—to the French Riviera to write his story for $50,000."

PROHIBITION HUMOR

An excellent example of the working of the professional prohibitionist mind is furnished by "Pussyfoot" Johnson's gift of $100 in Confederate money, with an accompanying note, to James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, "to help balance the Democratic budget."

Were Mr. Farley the ablest organizer and most persuasive pleader that ever lived, he could not have brought out such a vote as his party received without the support of an overwhelming public opinion. Ignoring this fact, "Pussyfoot" extends his "congratulations" for the chairman's "magnificent job." With the same coarse, lumbering humor, he perpetrates a prank befitting the mental status of a rather dull and backward pupil, and appears to be immensely proud of it.

He compares Hoover's hard luck to that of "a starving man caught in a soup-storm with a pitchfork instead of a bucket." Older readers will remember this "gag" as already a hoary chestnut in the minstrel shows of a generation ago. Its use indicates about how well Mr. Johnson's thinking has kept pace with the times.

"The sea is only knee-deep to a man who is drunk," he writes. And to a man boozy with the savage fanaticism of the Anti-Saloon League, the roaring thunder of the tidal wave of revolt against prohibition's stupid tyranny is only the light splashing of forbidden liquor into the glasses of a few hirelings of brewers and distillers. "Pussyfoot" lost an eye in England a few years ago but his is a blindness that no number of optics could overcome. His kind do not yet understand that prohibition has been slain by the sober people of America and in the interest of order and morality, albeit a few professional "pussyfooters" may lose fat berths where the pay was never in Confederate money.

A NOTABLE ADVENTURE

Amy Johnson, plucky British aviatrix, having broken by more than ten hours the record of her husband, the famous Captain J. A. Mollison, from London to Cape Town, now contemplates a second trip home, completing an air journey of nearly 13,000 miles.

The dangers she encountered and will face again on her return are great. She must fly long distances over dense jungles, where a forced landing might easily be fatal, including a stretch of some 1,500 miles over the Sahara desert.

She has made flights from London to Australia and from London to Tokyo, being made a commander of the Order of the British Empire in recognition of her adventurous idealism and unfaltering courage. Her reputation as an intrepid and skillful flyer is now firmly established.

Her first long distance flight was an audacious venture. She was but a few hours out of a lawyer's office where she was employed as stenographer, with no flight to her credit of more than 150 miles, when she was off to Australia in a second-hand and very small plane. It was a sporting and foolhardy adventure par excellence, but luckily successful.

The United States Department of Commerce has but recently announced a strict supervision over projected flights by American airmen to foreign countries. Permission for unusual flights is to be granted only after it is proved to the satisfaction of the department that the pilot and equipment to be used are qualified for the undertaking. In view of the fact that further transoceanic and other long hazardous flights with conventional equipment are repetitions in character, the department feels that closer supervision in such attempts in the future now is in order.

The sporting element in flying adventures is recognized and there is no desire to prohibit flights of this character. Nevertheless the Commerce department proposes to control them to some extent by requiring authorization so that it may be of assistance in determining that there is a reasonable opportunity for their successful completion.

AMENDING THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION

Apropos of amendments to the Federal Constitution. Mr. A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general, advances the theory that if the amendment is to be ratified by conventions in the states, exceedingly prompt action is possible. Thus far, all constitutional amendments have been submitted to the state legislatures for ratification, the alternative convention as provided never having been specified as the modus operandi by Congress. The proposed amendment to inaugurate the President and new Congress in January instead of March, now before the states, provides for ratification by the state legislatures at regular sessions, with seven years as the limit of time for action.

The Supreme Court of the United States has held that the power of Congress to propose amendments is unlimited except that it must act by a two-thirds vote of both houses, that Congress may prescribe the time within which state legislatures must act and that with the Constitution, as with statutes, "what is reasonably implied is as much a part of it as what is expressed."

Inasmuch as the framers of the Constitution intended that the two methods of ratification should be entirely distinct, the decisions of the Supreme Court, according to Mr. Palmer, imply that Congress, in submitting an amendment for ratification "by conventions in three-fourths of the several states," has broad and almost unlimited powers; that it may prescribe the time when and the manner in which such conventions shall be chosen and shall function and "that such directions of Congress shall supersede and to that extent nullify all the provisions in state statutes or state constitutions in conflict with the congressional fiat on the subject."

If this interpretation be correct, Congress has the power to specify the details as to how and when the delegates to the convention shall be selected, when they shall meet—in fact, set up the necessary procedure entirely apart from any control by the legislatures, to avoid which seems to have been the purpose underlying the convention method of ratification.

This means that Congress, not having to depend upon the state legislatures which might refuse to call conventions or delay action in other ways, may prescribe an exceedingly short time limit, say not more than four months, in which the states must act.

Thus it would appear that, should congress be so minded, ratification by state conventions offers the opportunity for much speedier action than can possibly be obtained through submission of constitutional amendments to the state legislatures.

NOPE, folks, Henry Ford did not go to the hospital simply because the election gave him a pain . . . but he was surprised to wake up after the operation and find out that the docs had removed his appendix, too . . . that wasn't in the original schedule . . . now it isn't in Henry, either . . .

England was busy preparing a statement to this country to show why she shouldn't have to pay the war loans. Can't figure out why they didn't call Jimmy Walker in to help 'em out. After all, Jimmy's a swell wisecracker and he could help the English prepare a statement that would simply lay the congress of the United States on the floor all doubled up with laughter.

Besides, Jimmy is over in Europe now, considering a book about his life, and the English ought to be glad to pay him a neat piece of change for some of his very best wisecracks.

Bringing to mind the German writer Feuchtwanger who, returning to the fatherland after his recent trip to the United States, caught some ink in his use of American slang.

Frifaxample, he said: "Everything is okay. I had a swell time and it was not lousy."

Such iggerance of the American tongue, Tsk, tsk.

He should have crashed through with "Everything is hot-ha, pal, also hi-de-ho. The folks are okay—they're swell, but the likker is lousy."

Then he'd be speaking American instead of indulging in that terrible word usage, "Not lousy" is a lousy expression, far removed from the correct American idiom.

The Democratic leaders in this state claim that they aren't gonna tie up with the LaFollette group. But maybe the Democrats are already tied up and don't know it. Anywho, we'll be seeing.

Shureeth Thing Y'Know (his)
These various orchestras which so cleverly broadcast the current number "Pink Elephants" over the air are missing something. The "drunken" vocalist is passing up a good opportunity. A lad with a good bun sitting would never say "Pink Elephants." It'd be "Ping Efelunts."

Last spring the economists told everybody to look for an upturn in the fall. This fall they're advising us to watch for the real jump upwards next spring. By next spring, the supreme court will probably have declared the beer legislation unconstitutional so even if prosperity is back, nobody will give a darn anyway.

MAN AND DOG

My dog is very smart. He knows
My step upon the walk.
A certain interest he shows
When I begin to talk;
And it is plain he understands
The catalog of my commands.
He'll go and come to suit my whim
And I am very proud of him.

A clever terrier he is,
True courtesy he shows
To friends who come to visit me
As if their names he knows.
And he will try to bark away
The stranger, calling night or day.
Intelligent? There's not a doubt
That dog knows just what he's about.

But should another dog come by
And undertake to share
The over-generous meals which I
For him each day prepare;
At once a fearful fight would start,
My dog is not so kind of heart
That he would sympathetic be
With dogs less fortunate than he.

And thus since roads are often rough
And winds blow cold, we find
That being clever's not enough.
Man also must be kind.
A dog may be both wise and cute
But to the end he's just a brute
While man, however wise he be,
Must prove his worth with sympathy.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Dec. 3, 1907

Mrs. Margaret Patten and daughter, Miss Emma Patten, left the previous day for New York City where they expected to spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright were spending the day at Oshkosh as the guests of relatives and friends.

With the exception of one or two of the larger business houses of Appleton, beginning that evening stores were to remain open each night until after the Christmas holiday.

Leslie Mathews, of Mason City, Iowa, had accepted a clerical position at the Kamps and Sacksteder drug store.

Miss Milhe Franke left that morning for her home at Forest Junction to spend several days.

The Misses Clara and Anna Coats had returned to Milwaukee after spending a few days at their home in Grand Chute.

Mrs. Sadie Hatch was elected oracle of Royal Neighbors at a meeting the previous evening at South Masonic hall.

STILL HAS MONEY

At a time when the fortunes of the Insulls are at low ebb, and swiftly subsiding, it is pleasant to be able to dwell for a moment on one comfortable instance, referring of course, to the settlement in cash of the hotel bill in Milan.

It was a trifling obligation of $13, but the payment was made, so the dispatches say, "from an abundance of cash." What an Italian remark! The notion may be of an "abundance of cash" is conjectural but, until otherwise advised, we are assuming that it is the equivalent of the American scribbles "roll that would choke a cow." So, while his empire has gone the way of many dynasties, let it be recorded that Chicago's kilowatt-a-man, so it speak, is not broke. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Personal Health Talks

DIABETES PREVAILS IN SPIRIT OF DEPRESSION

Among 40,000 soldiers who passed thru a hospital in France where routine urinalysis was made in all cases only two were diabetic. If there is any class of individuals subjected to "nerve strain" it is soldiers in active service on the battle line. Must be some other factor responsible for the prevalence of diabetes in the United States.

A certain class of people, I dare not characterize them as of a race or a religion, are famous for the way they enjoy life when they prosper, and equally famous for the way they prosper. These people are more subject to diabetes than any other class of people in the country. Among them are perhaps more fat individuals of mature age than there are among any other class of people in the country. Barter is their instinct, but they excel in the professions as in business. I don't know whether their besetting sin is overeating or underexercising, but I believe it is a combination of the two that accounts for their predilection for diabetes. These people themselves are as neurotic as they are prosperous; not only do they "go to pieces" over emotional trifles but they are fond of ascribing disturbances of health to "nerve strain" or "nervous breakdown."

Theoretically diabetes might be supposed to decrease in prevalence during hard times, but unfortunately diabetes is rather a disease of well-to-do, of the class that gets by without doing much real work, and this class is not the class that suffers from the depression. The parasitic class makes the most noise waiting over the sad state of the stock market and all that, but it is the honest working class that suffers deprivation, and diabetes is not a disease of the poorer class, nor is it likely to occur in the individual who earns his living by the sweat of his brow.

For the special enlightenment of all our readers who are now taining for diabetes I beg to suggest that six miles of oxygen on the hoof every day, or its equivalent in any other form of work, play or exercise you prefer, is by all odds the best preventive we know. In Dr. Don H. Duffie's "Book for Diabetics" the most helpful book for the diabetes patient as well as his physician (published by the author, Central Lake, Mich. for the price of a cheap shirt) appears this illuminating explanation: "A diabetic is one who is starving for sugar while his blood is full of it . . . It might be said that his blood-sugar rides 'round and 'round on the delivery wagon instead of being delivered."

Insulin effects delivery of the sugar—enables the body to metabolize, oxidize, burn it as fuel to provide energy. Increased absorption of oxygen, which is brought about by exercise of any kind, promotes normal blood sugar metabolism or utilization. Walk, you parasites, walk.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Rice Powder and Sore Eyes

Can you tell me whether the use of face powder would account for constant irritation and redness of the lining of the eyelids? (Miss A. W.)

Answer—Some such trouble is caused by the use of rice powder, the fine powder grains getting into the eyes and remaining embedded in the conjunctiva or lining and eyelid covering, where they produce irritation and itching. The trouble is quickly relieved by flushing the eyes with large quantities of salt water (teaspoonful of salt in the pint) lukewarm. After irrigation, smear the edges of lids with a bit of sterile petrolatum (from tube) and work a wee bit of it into the eyes. Repeat irrigation and petrolatum twice a day till relieved. Of course, use no more powder, or if you must, avoid the powder puff.

Correction of Error

In a reply to a question in this column recently under the heading "Source of Arsenic Poisoning," I mistakenly referred to Black Leaf 40 as an arsenical. Black Leaf 40 is a well known brand of nicotine sulphate. Of course it contains no arsenic.

Tired Eyes

Kindly advise harmless solution which will benefit tired eyes. My eyes feel tired at times and I would like to know what to use for a wash. (W. A. H.)

Answer—Or in other words you want a remedy to relieve eye fatigue, or something like that. I know of no such remedy. Perhaps you have an error of refraction which calls for glasses. Or perhaps the lighting arrangements for your eye work are wrong. Or it may be that the discomfort you attribute to tired eyes is a symptom of some trouble not connected with the eyes. In my opinion the notion of relieving fatigue by bathing or using any kind of wash is just a notion. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

For Home Demonstration Agent

Editor Post-Crescent—I read the editorial in Saturday's Post-Crescent on county service and regret to know that people live in this great country of ours today who are so ignorant as to feel that the women and children of our county are classed below our men or even below our cattle and poultry. It is important to know how to feed our animals. We must know how to do this.

And of course we women are interested in having our men know the latest there is in farming. In order to compete today we need all the help we can get and advice from the bottom of my heart I know it would be criminal for Outagamie county to discontinue the services of our county nurse. No one could be more loyal and faithful to a duty as county nurse than Miss Marie Klein is. She has made many a trip in the winter to a farm home where help was needed and where not even a doctor would venture. Miss Klein never falters—where duty calls she goes. But is not the life of the rural women and farm boy and girl worth anything? Many people it seems would like to see our country as India is, the man educated but the women not. Do we want this? Can the farm advance where the farm women must slave at the old methods—can the farm advance when the women are not educated sufficiently to keep pace with the men?

The writer of the editorial said that all the material the home demonstration agent gave could be obtained from books and by reading the farm women could learn this. I wish to correct this statement. There is not today written a book or pamphlet on the latest methods of canning, there is not a book or pamphlet written on cutting the patterns for little accessories that go to make clothes individual, there is not a book or pamphlet written that will teach our girls how to use what they have at home to the best advantage. Nor is there anything written on the hundred and one other things which Miss Thompson gives us. There is certainly nothing written that will keep up the enthusiasm for knowledge of farm and home practices that Miss Thompson created and developed in the farm boys and girls. Is not the life and advancement of our boys and girls, the very finest of Wisconsin's products, worth anything. Many of our boys and girls do not have the opportunity of high school and very few of them can attend vocational school but in many instances the community work done by our home and club agent take the place of this.

The writer of the editorial might be interested to know that most of the home and club agents work is done through community groups and not through individuals. In other words it is a community enterprise rather than individual. It is quite true that through these community groups which she has organized we are able to put on home talent entertainment and this way develop talent which we otherwise would not find. Also by making our own entertainment and keeping our young people interested in our own communities we are able to enjoy entertainments which we could otherwise not have as few of us are not able to afford even a movie now. And surely the writer of the editorial would not have our lives "all work and no play." It may be of interest to the writer of the editorial to know that it will be through the organized efforts of these community groups that many of our county poor will be cared for and looked after this winter through poor relief and Red Cross work in making over garments and giving lessons in food work. And without the aid of the home demonstration agent this work cannot be carried on in the rural sections. If there ever was a time when Outagamie county needs the offices of these people it is now. And by making the proposed cost of these offices will be about half what it is now. Is not 3 cents on a $1,000 valuation a cheap service to any taxpayer of Outagamie county.

The office of the home demonstration agent is open for use by any individual or group of individuals in Outagamie county who cares to ask for service.

It may be of interest to the people of Outagamie county to really know what the duties of our home and club agent are:

1. To organize and advise 4-H members in such a way that they in turn can pass along through demonstration and other ways the knowledge they have received. Of these demonstrations there were 84 this past year. These not only help in the community but they also help to develop pride, self reliance, initiative, courage, fellowship, and above all sportsmanship in the young people.

2. It is her duty to teach our girls the latest practical methods of homemaking. Many a girl whose mother has never sewed or canned has learned through 4-H club work to make her own clothes and the family clothes, to do the family canning and baking and numerous other things. Many of our girls are making articles from the lowly flour bag that are the envy of all

By Hal Cochran

WHEN Scouty rode right out of sight upon the squirrel, each Tynmite that had been left behind sat down to rest a little while. "The squirrel moves at a speedy gait," said Windy. "We'll sit here and wait till it comes back. Then we'll all ride around for 'bout a mile." "For goodness sakes," said Copy, "You think of a lot of things to do, but it is more than likely that the squirrel will be tired out. 'We'll have to let it rest a bit before we take our turns on it.' And then, far in the distance, they all heard a merry shout.

"It's Scouty!" shouted Duncy. "He seems just as cheerful as can be. I guess he's managed to hang on despite a lot of bumps." "I hope that we can do as well, but that is something we can't tell. I only know that little squirrel just jumps and jumps and jumps." Then Scouty rode right into sight. He shouted, "I am quite all right. The ride I had was dandy. Who is going to follow me?" Said Windy, "Oh, we think it best to let the kind squirrel have a rest." The squirrel, however, said, "Oh, no! I'm fresh as fresh can be."

So all the Tynies had their fun at riding and when this was done, the squirrel exclaimed, "Let's go to my home. Quite a sight you'll see."

I have two baby squirrels and they just dearly love to dance and play. The squirrels soon were brought out. They were as cute as they could be.

The Tynies crawled up on a limb and Copy said, "If they're in trim, please let them do a dance for us in the open air."

The mother squirrel replied, "All right." The dance went on, and what a sight. "My gracious," shouted Scouty. "They're a very graceful pair." (Copyright 1932, NEA Service, Inc.) (The Tynies get a surprise in the next story.)

who see them and it is through Miss Thompson's suggestions and efforts that our girls learn to use what they have on hand.

3. To direct community leadership in 4-H club work.

4. In general it is the duty of the home and club agent to provide instructive and creative education for the rural 4-H club members of Outagamie county.

With a few bold facts staring us in the face as for instance, 56 per cent of the convicts of Sing Sing prison have an average age of 19 years and according to statistics the lion's share of taxes in Illinois goes to maintain its penal and charitable institutions which is 34.33 per cent and education draws -33.71 per cent of the total budget. What it cost to keep four boys or girls in our state reformatory at Green Bay would more than pay the salary of the home and club agent. I feel our young people need some form of guidance. If our boys and girls have no place other than the local saloon and dance hall to go to what more can we expect.

As to women's work Miss Thompson organizes local and community groups which carry on community activities and learn the very latest on feeding and clothing their families. Through these clubs we are learning how to store and use what the farm produces. We learn how to buy intelligently. What we have to buy and we learn how to live more contentedly and happily with what we have. Is it not a necessity to successful farm living to know all these things? And would we not suffer a great loss were we to lose this service? Many people expect the home and club agent to accomplish in less than four years time with the women and 4-H clubs what it has taken the county agent 13 years to accomplish with the men. We are just in our prime in this work and why for a few cents should the home, the nucleus of all civilization, be neglected.

It may be of interest to the people of Outagamie county to know that the editorial on the value of the home and club agent was a contorted translation of Mr. Malachi Ryan's original letter. Mr. Ryan, a member of the agricultural committee strongly favors and supports such an activity.

In closing I wish to say that this editorial reminded me of the old time would-be progressive farmer who piped the water into the barn who thought he would not have to break his back, but who saw no necessity for piping the water into his house. In other words his wife's back was of little consequence and his children less.

Norman Davis May Get First Cabinet Post

Considered Most Able and Best Trained for Secretary of State

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Norman H. Davis, who has been in conference with Premier Herriot in the last 24 hours on the armament problem, may be the secretary of state in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mr. Davis was under-secretary of state in the last few months of the Wilson administration and was one of the economic advisers of the American mission which negotiated the Versailles treaty.
Officials here have been hoping that they would hear soon the names of the prospective appointees to the portfolios of state, commerce and treasury, as there are many vital problems pending on which work must be done in advance of March 4, and on which collaboration between the outgoing and incoming administrations is considered necessary in the public interest.
The reports here are that Mr. Davis is perhaps the most likely of all selections for the secretaryship of state from the viewpoint of ability and training. Few men in America have had the experience with the complicated mechanism of foreign relations that is possessed by Mr. Davis. He has been one of the delegates to the Geneva conference on armament reduction and has been in touch with economic phases of diplomatic problems for the last several years. Had the United States become an official member of the reparations commission, it is known that President Wilson had decided to appoint Mr. Davis to the post.
Another cabinet appointment constantly hinted here as likely to come soon is that of secretary of commerce. Jesse Straus, head of Macy's in New York, is the man most frequently mentioned in capital gossip.

Baruch Favored
As for the secretaryship of the treasury, another New Yorker, Bernard M. Baruch is being suggested by leading Democrats as a most likely choice. While both Mr. Straus and Mr. Baruch hail from New York, it is believed the president-elect is not going to be disturbed by the geographical fetish any more than was President Hoover when he selected a New Yorker in addition to those already on the supreme court bench.
There are rumors that Mr. Baruch will decline the post because he does not desire to become a part of Washington's officialdom and that he may occupy the post of unofficial adviser, just as will Owen D. Young, another man often mentioned but not likely to be persuaded to accept cabinet honors at this time.

Preparation for the world economic conference requires the cooperation of the departments of state, treasury and commerce and with the British government pressing for an early conference to be held after the first of the year, it is difficult to see how its request can be granted unless officials of the Hoover administration know in the next few weeks who the successors to these cabinet posts are going to be.
It had been hoped here that one of the results of the Roosevelt-Hoover conference would be collaboration on the collection of data and arrangements for the discussion of a program for the world economic conference. While this subject was mentioned in the Roosevelt-Hoover conversations, thus far there has been no tangible move toward cooperation between the outgoing and incoming administrations. This may mean that the conference will have to be postponed until April—something that businessmen both here and abroad are striving to prevent, because they expect favorable psychological results to flow from the mere convening of a conference on world economic problems.

State Continues As Cheese Leader
Produces 309,957,000
Pounds in 1931, Statistician Reports

Madison, (P)— Wisconsin retained its lead as the greatest cheese producing state in 1931, turning out 309,957,000 pounds or 36 per cent of the total cheese output of the United States, Walter Ebling, statistician for the U. S. and Wisconsin departments of agriculture, reported today.
Wisconsin produced six times as much cheese as the nearest competitor, New York. The Empire state produced 52,911,000 pounds in 1931. Oregon was next with 16,348,000 and Indiana followed with 14,704,000 pounds. California produced 10,038,000, Illinois 8,606,000, and Michigan 7,546,000 pounds.
Seventy-six per cent of the national output is American cheese. In Wisconsin this type of cheese forms 78 per cent of the output. Brick and Munster together account for 11 per cent of the state's production. Swiss cheese is seven per cent and smaller quantities of cream and Neuchatel, Limburger, Italian and other varieties make up the balance.
The production of brick, Munster and Limburger cheese increased seven per cent in 1931 as compared with 1930 but all other types of cheese registered declines, Ebling said. Total cheese production was one per cent lower in 1931 than in 1930. Swiss cheese production suffered a five per cent decline. Production of the important types of cheese in Wisconsin in 1930 and 1931 follows:

	1930	1931
American	245,468,000	243,108,000
Brick and Munster	32,022,000	34,165,000
Swiss	24,109,000	22,844,000
Cream and Neuchatel	5,353,000	3,487,000
Limburger	5,065,000	5,391,000
All other types	1,412,000	961,000
Total	313,424,000	309,957,000

The year of the greatest production in Wisconsin was 1923 when 362,677,940 pounds were manufactured. There was a gradual decline until 1929 when the output was 310,853,025 pounds. A one per cent increase was noted the following year and a similar increase in 1931.

Roosevelt Busy Outlining Plans For Farm Relief

Believed to be Inclined Toward Domestic Allotment Proposal

Warm Springs, Ga.—(P)—With material he has gleaned from several days of conferences at Hand, Franklin D. Roosevelt came today to the task of putting his views of what is necessary to help the farmer before the house agriculture committee that will act upon them.

In the opinion of some of those who are familiar with the series of conferences he has held, the president-elect is leaning toward some form of domestic allotment plan to be used in dealing with agricultural surpluses.

The outline he gave in his Topeka speech on farm relief methods was construed as an indication that some such plan might be contemplated and the advisers that he called in to counsel with him are men who have made a long study of the plan.

One of those summoned, but unable to come, was M. L. Wilson, of the Montana State Agricultural college, who played a large part in working out the so-called domestic allotment plan.

Under this method, a board would work out an estimate of the amount of agricultural products needed for domestic consumption. For this portion of his crop, the farmer would be assured the cost of production. The general details of the system to be employed probably would have to be worked out by either the agricultural committees of the house and senate or possibly by the farm board. The delegation that came to Warm Springs several days ago from the National Grange favored giving the farm board the power to select the method that would be used in dealing with agricultural surpluses.

The conference with members of the house agriculture committee today follows extensive study and discussion of the agricultural prob-

California Mayor Is Shot Down by Bandits

Anaheim, Calif.—Shot in the abdomen by bandits near here, Mayor Frank Koessel on Anaheim, was near death today.

The mayor underwent an emergency operation shortly after he had driven unaided to the home of lem which took Mr. Roosevelt far into last night. Henry Wallace, Iowa farm editor, and Henry Morganthau of New York, accompanied by Senator Pittman (D), of Nevada and Mrs. Pittman, dined with him and there was a long talk about the question after dinner—the third conference Wallace and Morganthau had with the president-elect during yesterday.

A little earlier, he had gone over the legislative program for the short session with Senators Robinson (D) of Arkansas and Bankhead (D) of Alabama, the former the Democratic leader.

Robinson said later that the senate would not be disposed in the short session to confirm any presidential appointments other than a few exceptions in cases that were considered absolutely necessary.

Dr. George A. Paige, 12 miles from the scene of the shooting last night, Koessel came to Anaheim about 10 years ago from Hecla, S. D. He has been mayor since last April.

The mayor said he was on his way home from Pomona, Calif., when he stopped his car to avoid striking two men who he thought were henchmen. He said one of the men asked him for money, and when he refused to give any, the bandit shot him.

Koessel said that while he lay unconscious, the men searched his pockets and obtained $35 in cash.

They fled, and the mayor crawled back into his automobile and drove to the doctor's office although he was steadily weakened by loss of blood.

A posse of officers was sent into Brea Canyon in search of the assassins. Koessel said both men wore caps and that one was masked and the other bearded.

Gives Talk To Club on 'King Lear'

NINETY-FIVE members of Appleton Women's club heard the lecture on "King Lear" given by Miss Dorothy Bethurum of Lawrence college Monday afternoon in her classroom in Main hall. The last of the series of ten Shakespearean lectures will be given Tuesday. Miss Bethurum will discuss "A Winter's Tale," "Cymbeline" and "The Tempest," representing Shakespeare's last period.

Eighty-eight revolvers have been received already for the series of psychology lectures to be given by Dr. J. H. Griffiths after the holidays.

Wednesday Musicals club will meet at 2:45 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. A. Raschig, 1123 S. Mason-st. Mrs. S. W. Murphy will be chairman of the program on Brahms as I Knew Him, and those who will take part are Mrs. J. P. Frank, Miss Ann Thoma, Mrs. Clarence Richter, Mrs. Emil Voelckes, Mrs. Carl J. Waterman, Miss Barbara Kamps, and Miss Eleanor Voelckes.

The Newman club of Lawrence college met for a supper and program Sunday evening at Catholic home. Thirty members were present. Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held Dec. 18 when gifts will be exchanged and a Christmas program of entertainment will be carried out.

The entertainment opened with songs by the school children, a recitation, "Run Away, Mr. Gobbler," by Janet Bradley; a recitation, "A Happy Tomato," by Margaret Runnoe; Shadow Pictures by Verna Runnoe, Donald Runnoe, Claude Armitage and Ethelyn Armitage; "Sockeye Kadact's Accident," by Verna Runnoe; and musical numbers by Jesse Carter, baritone; Lawrence Brugger, bass horn; and Raymond Brugger, slide trombone. Lunch was served after the program. Miss Grave Prentice is the teacher.

DeMolays In State Convention

JOHN HORTON, senior counselor of John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay; Jere Ottman, scribe; and Lacey Horton, advisor, were among the attendants at the annual state convention of DeMolay Friday and Saturday at Manitowoc, which marked the tenth anniversary of the founding of the order in Wisconsin. It was held in Manitowoc in honor of E. G. Nash, Manitowoc, who was grand high priest of grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons at the time of the founding of the state order. Frank S. Land, Kansas City, Mo., grand scribe of the grand council of DeMolay of the World, who founded the order in 1919, was present at the convention. He organized the order from a band of nine boys. The idea developed so rapidly after the ritual was formed and the purpose of the order made known that between 1920 and 1922 a chapter was organized in every state in the union. It now has a membership of 150,000 active DeMolays. During the 12 years of its existence, the order has initiated 350,000 boys who went through the order to reach their majority.

Officers who were elected at the convention are Conrad Hansen, Eau Claire, master counselor; Arthur Harb, Madison, senior counselor; Carl W. Ellison, Kenosha, junior counselor; Howard Du Rocher, Racine, scribe; L. Pearson, Marinette, marshal; Newton Held, Wauwatosa, chaplain; and William Schmitz, Port Washington, sentinel. The next convention will be held in Eau Claire.

Banquet On Program
The program included a banquet Friday night at which 400 boys were present. W. D. Isham, state deputy of the grand council, presided. In the evening Roosevelt chapter of Manitowoc exemplified the DeMolay degree. Saturday morning the time was taken up by addresses by outstanding members in the state.

A majority team conferred the majority degree on a group of 14 boys in the afternoon, and the Legion of Honor, a graduate organization, conferred its degree on 11 boys. Mr. Isham conferred the order of the Cross on advisors who have served on the advisory council for more than three years. The convention hall was held Saturday night in the gymnasium of the new Manitowoc high school. An Appleton orchestra provided the music, and a dress team of Milwaukee chapter put on a patrol drill.

A regular meeting of John F. Rose chapter will be held Thursday night at Masonic temple at which John Horton will report on the convention.

Lawrence Club Hears Talk on Hypnotism

Hypnotism and Mesmerism was the subject of the address given by Dr. J. H. Bible Play Is Given At Church

SEVENTY-FIVE and 100 persons attended the production of "Sacrifice," a Bible play, Sunday night at First Baptist church. The play was written by W. F. Manley and was originally intended as a radio play. The story is built around the Bible incident of God's command to Abraham to sacrifice Isaac, and reaches its climax in the fourth scene on the mountain top.

The part of Abraham was taken by Donald Petersen, the part of Sarah by Helen Jean Babb, and that of Isaac by Gene Langdon. Homer Porter was the director. Unusual lighting effects took the place of scenery, and musical interludes were played by Mrs. A. R. Eads. Gwendolyn Vandawarka was production manager and read the synopsis before each scene. Philip Johnson had charge of the entire service Sunday evening.

The annual thank offering service at Emmanuel Evangelical church were held by Women's Missionary society of the church Sunday morning and evening. The Rev. G. H. Blum preaching the special sermons. In the morning he talked on "Perpetual Thanksgiving" and his subject for the evening was "Thanks Living." Special music by the choir and a mixed and a male quartet was given. The sum of $94 was taken in through the offering.

Circle B of First English Lutheran church will sponsor a rook and dice party at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Fellowship hall for members and friends. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Edna Schmidt, Mrs. Grover Smith, Mrs. E. C. Koepke, Mrs. L. Kaufman, Mrs. L. Hodgins, and Mrs. Mabel Griem.

St. Therese Study club will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night at the parish hall instead of Tuesday because of the Christian Mothers' meeting Tuesday. Mrs. Peter Williamson will have charge of the topic on the Mass and Mrs. James Woods and Mrs. Edward Cummings will present current topics.

Twenty-five members of the Senior Olive branch, Walther league of Mount Olive Lutheran church, took part in a "hard time" party at the church parlors Monday evening. Games and stunts furnished entertainment.

A meeting of Christian Mothers' society of St. Therese church will meet at 7:30 Tuesday night at the parish hall. Election of officers will take place and a social hour will follow.

Holiday Bazaar Is Opened by Church

The holiday bazaar sponsored by the Social Union of First Methodist church opened with a flourish at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning with the visit of "Lady Welbourne" and her entourage. The "titled" guest was greeted by Mrs. J. R. Denyes and Mrs. J. A. Holmes who explained the purpose of the event and the manner in which it is being conducted, after which "Lady Welbourne" made a tour of the booths and made the initial purchases, assisted by "Major Brewster-Smith," her attendant.

Jean Fellows presented the guest with a basket of flowers, as is customary at the opening of bazaars in the English manner.

"Lady Welbourne" will return with her party to visit the bazaar at 5:45 Wednesday afternoon.

Supper Marks Start of Every-Member Canvass

The annual congregational supper at Trinity English Lutheran church at 6:30 Wednesday evening in the sub auditorium will begin an every-member canvass of the congregation. A congregational meeting will be held at 7:15 following the supper. A special invitation has been extended to all members of the church to attend the meeting whether or not they can be present at the supper.

Mrs. Walter Quandt is chairman of the tickets, Mrs. Edward Baruth has charge of the kitchen, and Mrs. Gust Tesch is in charge of the dining room. The church council will arrange the program.

Churches to Observe Universal Bible Sunday

Universal Bible Sunday will be observed in Protestant churches Sunday. Colored posters will be displayed and the event will be referred to in the Sunday sermons in a number of churches.

A. Paulsen, Mrs. James Wagg, Mrs. H. K. Pratt, and Mrs. W. T. Hughes.

Advent Services, Church Suppers on Program for Week

Laymen's Missionary Meeting Scheduled for Friday Evening

With the exception of Advent services and a scattering of church suppers and organization meetings, the church week will be a quiet one.

A laymen's missionary meeting will be held Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A., with Dr. D. Brewer Eddy, brother of Sherwood Eddy as the speaker. The meeting is sponsored by the Appleton Ministerial association, and is for all men of the city.

The Methodist congregation was addressed Sunday morning by Dr. H. M. Wriston of Lawrence college, who spoke on Stewardship from the Laymen's Point of View. In the time of financial depression, he said, the only institutions outside of the home for building character, the church and the school, find themselves facing a crisis, which leads people to believe that what was looked upon as philanthropy in times of plenty, was merely charity. He pointed out that while the United States has a depression three years old, and England one 12 years old, England's educational institutions and churches are not facing the economical problems that are troubling American institutions.

"The only cure for the world-wide condition of affairs," he declared, "is a readjustment of the moral sense of all people."

Bazaar This Week
Dr. H. F. Lewis addressed the First English Lutheran group in the evening. The annual Christmas bazaar of the Social Union will be held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at All Saints Episcopal church at 7:15 Tuesday morning, at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, and at 9:15 Thursday morning. Wednesday is St. Andrew's day. The every member canvass of the church, which started Sunday, will be completed Tuesday evening. Dr. L. D. Utz preached Sunday morning on the Interceding Saviour.

The First Promise Concerning the Saviour will be the subject of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer at an Advent service at Mount Olive church at 7:45 Thursday evening. Sunday morning his subject was Behold Thy King Cometh unto Thee. Communion was administered at a service at 7:30 Sunday morning. The annual meeting of the congregation, at which officers will be elected, will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Advent services will be held at St. Paul and St. Mathew churches Thursday evening. The Ladies Aid of St. Paul church will meet Thursday afternoon, and the Ladies Aid of St. Mathew church will hold a bazaar Wednesday.

Resumes Organ Recitals
The first of a series of twilight organ recitals was given Sunday afternoon at the Congregational church by LaVahn K. Maesch. The Men's club met in the morning, and the Young People's Fellowship in the evening. Dr. H. E. Peabody preached a missionary sermon, speaking on the missionaries now in the field. The Women's Association met Tuesday afternoon.

August Weissweber of Milwaukee will address the Knights of Columbus on Christian Education at a breakfast Sunday morning, following corporate communion. The Christian Mothers took communion in a body Sunday morning.

Universal Bible Sunday will be observed in Protestant churches in the city Sunday.

The Rev. L. F. Gast of Green Bay was the speaker at the first of a series of four Advent services at First English Lutheran church Sunday evening. In the morning the Rev. F. C. Reuter preached on The Dawning of a New Day.

The Sunday School teachers and officers will meet at 7:30 Thursday evening, and the Ladies Aid and Missionary society will have a business and social meeting at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. G. H. Blum preached on Perpetual Thanksgiving at a Women's Missionary thank offering service at Emmanuel Evangelical church Sunday morning. The Young People's Missionary Circle will hold a social Wednesday evening.

To Continue Class
Dr. J. R. Denyes will continue his class on the Evolution of Christian Thought at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening. Sunday morning the Rev. R. A. Garrison preached on Faith in God.

When Do I Enter the New Church Year Aright? was the subject of the sermon delivered by the Rev. W. R. Wetzel at the English service at St. John church. Holy Communion was celebrated at the German service. The Women's Union will meet Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. Theodore Marth preached Sunday morning on Hail, the King and Head of the Christian Church! at Zion Lutheran church. A Junior Social Gathering was held Monday evening.

The Rev. E. F. Franz preached Sunday on Sing and Be Joyful in the Reformed church.

The subject at the service at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, was Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, De-nounced.

Measure Smallest Quantity of Light At Rice Institute

Houston, Texas—(P)—The smallest quantity of light ever detected electrically—that of the flow of three electrons every minute has been caught and measured at Rice Institute.

The apparatus reaches farther out into the invisible than previous instruments by combining a photo-electric cell with a cosmic ray counter. It was described today in the physical review by Gordon L. Locher of the institute and of the Bartol Research foundation of Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

How slight is a ray may be visualized from the fact that the ordinary dull red glow of a radio tube is the flow of about 100,000 electrons, not in a minute, but in a second.

Dr. Locher's machine records both visible light and ultra-violet. In the ultra-violet range his detector picks up rays of 900 Angstrom units, which are less than half the wave lengths of the ultra-violet sun rays causing tan.

But when set to measure the peculiar rays emanating from living bodies, Dr. Locher reports the new detector fails to record any radiation. Scientists have believed the "life rays" were ultra-violet. Dr. Locher took readings for such rays on plant roots and on bacteria, but not on human flesh, which emits the same odd form of supposed "light."

Risky Business to Put Friendships to Test

BY DOROTHY DIX

A foolish young girl asks me what tests she can apply to her friends to determine whether they are true or not.

To which I can only reply: "Better not. Don't put friendship under the microscope. Don't apply the acid to it to find out if it is pinchbeck or pure gold. Don't put a strain upon it to ascertain its strength. Just take it at its face value and enjoy it. Believe in the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow as long as you can. There are a lot of beautiful things put in the world for its adornment and our enjoyment that are never meant for hard daily usage. We are not expected to make a scrubbing brush out of the painted wings of the butterfly.

Of course, sooner or later, life does try out our friends for us. Poverty, sickness, sorrow, death, age come on us. We are no longer gay and amusing companions. We are shabby instead of richly dressed. Our tables are only spread with meager fare instead of groaning under rich banquets. Our homes are places of mourning instead of houses of mirth. Then it is that our friends fade away and we are fortunate if one or two are left who are faithful and true and whom no misfortune can alienate from us.

It is the custom to be very contemptuous of these fair-weather friends, but this is a mistake. They are a part of the amenities of life and add to its delights. They serve their purpose in the general scheme of things and help make existence a pleasanter thing than it would be without them.

Perhaps Mrs. A's friendship is of the kind that offers us caviar and champagne when we are prosperous, but would never give us a loaf of bread if we were poor and hungry, but she makes an amusing and entertaining dinner guest and we can laugh at her witty sallies. Perhaps Mrs. B's friendship is of the sort that will let us ride with us in an automobile, but would never tread the dark road of grief with us, but she is fun and helps make our parties go. Perhaps the temperance of Mr. C's friendship rises and falls with our standing in the bank, well, at any rate, he is a jolly good fellow and plays an admirable hand of bridge.

And, after all, isn't this about all that we have wanted of these fair-weather friends? Just entertainment and suavity and making themselves agreeable and showing us a few pleasant attentions? And isn't it about all that we had a right to expect of them? And isn't it supervening that makes us think that we inspire a deathless passion in the breasts of every casual acquaintance that would cause them to sacrifice themselves for us and stick to us through thick and thin?

Certainly very few of us have such an irresistible power of fascination that we bind every one with whom we come in contact to us with hoops of steel. Most of us are fortunate if those we meet feel even a passing liking for us. John Hay once said that even the most popular among us would die of chagrin if we knew what our neighbors really thought of us.

So we can easily perceive the folly of attempting to test our friends and find out exactly how strong is their affection for us. The chances are too great that they think no more of us than we do of them and that they would be no more faithful to us than we would be to them in a time of stress and strain. For we too are fair-weather friends to many people, delighted to exchange a chop for a chop with them, but not to divide our last bite with them.

One of the queer things about friendship is that we regard it as a sort of graft in which we always expect to get more than we give. We expect our friends to love us better than we love them, to pay us more attention than we pay them, to be truer to us than we are to them, and when they fail to do this we call them false and grow bitter about it.

Yet how many friends have we for whom we would make a real sacrifice? Perhaps none. Perhaps one of two at most. Yet we expect all those with whom we have played around to be willing to fight our battles for us, pay our debts for us and to whitewash our names when we cover them with slime.

Absurd. Real friends are as rare as flawless pearls and as valuable and hard to come by. Lucky those who find one friend whose heart cleaves unto them as David's did to Jonathan's.

But for those who lack this jewel of price there is consolation in the hosts of agreeable and amusing near-friends we all have—synthetic pearls if you like—but who add to the adornment of life.

But only the foolhardy test their friends or their pearls to try to find out whether they are real or not.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

THE car stopped. Jack opened the door to admit the detectives. There were a few news paper men with them.

Sue recognized the red-headed reporter who had been assigned to cover the story when she had been kidnaped, once upon a time, during the days of her engagement to Harry Becker.

His name was Donald Payne. Odd that she should remember it now, she mused. And strange, too, that she should begin to recall that nightmare when another one was being enacted before her eyes in her own home.

But she had been kidnaped because she was engaged to Harry, and she had been engaged to Harry because she had turned to him when she thought the other girl had Jack's heart in her greedy slim white hands. They had found out in time. It had been all right, at last. And Harry and Corrine had fallen in love and eloped.

"Snap out of it," Sue told herself. "This isn't a time for reminiscences."

The police were making inquiries. The reporters were listening intently, asking for more details. Donald Payne crossed to Sally. She opened her eyes and smiled. "Hello! You look human. Can't you make these people go away?"

Sue caught the boy's look as he watched the girl. Sally was still lovely to watch. The boy knew it. Suddenly he turned away, too abruptly. A long time after that, Sue remembered the police—Sally was taken to a hospital. Sue and Jack and Dr. Raynor went with her. When she had been quieted, Sue and Jack came into the street. Dr. Raynor was waiting at the hospital for a little while. The light had cleared. The stars were shining. The street was a low canyon of darkness, brightened only by occasional street lamps.

Sue remembered the body of the dead woman, now in the county morgue. She thought of Sally with her hysterical threads of life so tangled. She remembered the police station, the blue uniformed figures—

"Let's go home, Jack," she said. "I don't want to enter the house. It scares me. First someone tried to hurt you there, then this thing happened."

She could tell by the pressure of his hand on her arm that he understood. "All right honey. We'll go to a hotel."

"A hotel! Isn't it odd—" she paused, then went on. "Isn't it odd that I don't quite want to go to my home and that—" No, she wouldn't say it.

"And that my father's hospital-ity doesn't include you?" Jack finished for her. "It's not right. Dad ought to be—but we won't go into that again."

They went into the hotel. They had stayed there once or twice before, while their own home was being completed. The lobby was dim, tired, waiting. The hotel clerk yawned sleepily. A night watchman eyed them curiously.

Jack registered while Sue leaned against the desk. She was tired. Dreadfully tired. She was going to tremble again, she thought. Nerves. She mustn't think of Sally.

"Sue! Jack! Oh, how gorgeous to find you here. It's a real home-coming!"

Sue and Jack turned as a girl's eager voice came lifting into the room. A porter was carrying several bags. The rugged looking tall young man, and the eager, laughing attractive girl with him were undoubtedly glad to see them. The same enthusiasm was in Sue's and Jack's answering voices. That and little hesitations as they looked at the girl.

BROWN FOR DEBUTANTES

Child Will Not Lose Articles He Cares for

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Tom, where is your cap?"

"I lost it."

"You lost it? Where?"

"I don't know."

"You don't know. Do you suppose that all I have to do is buy you one cap after another? Now you go look for that cap until you find it."

"I don't know where to look."

"Neither do I. You lost it. You go find it."

After a brief interval Tom comes back. "Well, did you find it?"

"No. I looked everywhere but it isn't there."

"I suppose so. I'll have to buy you another cap. That makes five this term. I don't know what is going to come of you if you don't take care of your things."

Why buy him another one? It won't hurt him to do without his cap. Many a boy never wears a cap except on very stormy days. Even if he has to go to church and Sunday School hatless, what of it? He doesn't wear a hat in church anyway. And if he really wanted a cap he wouldn't lose it so many times.

I believe that is true. If a child truly wants a thing he won't lose it save rarely. He is conscious of the things he wants to keep. He loses a thing he is not conscious of wanting. The way to get him to keep his hat is to make him conscious of needing it. That you do by letting him go without it.

That goes for other things that he loses and forgets. Do not replace it and make him go without until he replaces it if possible. A nine year old boy, or girl, has little notion of the values of things like books, hats, shoes, rubbers, mittens, balls. They need one and ask for it. They get it. They have no trouble in getting it. Just a request and there it is. There was no experience to impress the transaction on the mind of the child. It is promptly forgotten. Let him lose the object and do without. Let him earn it for himself, and I'll promise you he will remember it next time. Unless he doesn't want it.

A child forgets and loses the things he doesn't want to keep in mind or pocket. The poor report mind or forgotten. The good one never. The promised treat is always remembered while the dreaded chore is forgotten as easily as a slate is wiped clean.

When you find that a child is forgetting certain things, losing other things, habitually, consider the reason. Study why he wants to lose or forget. There is always a reason. The child's mind is always on his side. It helps him to forget and to lose undesirable things. It closes them out with a finality that is as complete as darkness at midnight. Find the reason.

Don't accuse the child of willfully forgetting. He does not willfully forget or lose the unpleasant thing or idea. He is unconscious of his desire to forget and to lose. Remove the cause of his desire and put something desirable in its stead. Give him experiences that will make him conscious of his need to remember and hold on, and he will do both.

OBLIGING OFFICER

Jacksonville, Fla. A man, deeply under the influence of liquor, staggered up to the desk at the police station and asked Officer B. C. Butler to put him in jail. Butler had hardly complied when the man changed his mind and wanted to furnish a bond to get out. The man was in no condition to be on the street, so Butler held him for trial.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By Emily Post

HOSPITALITY

My Dear Mrs. Post: Miss G. invited my sister, who is visiting me, to dinner without including me in the invitation? Was such an invitation in good taste, and should my sister accept it when I am not invited?

Answer: I can say quickly, that under average circumstances the answer is NO. But this is one of those questions that require immovable to answer halfway completely. First, we have all the ifs of local custom, and then the ifs of personal situation and relationships. If it were to a dinner party, such an invitation should include you, and under many other circumstances your sister would refuse should her going leave you alone. On the other hand, should an old friend of hers (a stranger to you) want to see her very much, there may be a dozen reasons why she might be asked alone—none of them slighting to you.

Dear Mrs. Post: We have recently built a new house. When people call should I, or should I not, take them to see the rest of the house? They sometimes remark, "I have admired the outside of your house so many times and have been so anxious to see the inside, and I would be glad to show them over it but hesitate to offer."

Answer: Taking it for granted that your house is in order, take those who seem interested, to see as much of it as you care to show them, by all means. I think you can judge pretty well by their manner whether they are really interested or merely conversational, polite, and show them much or little, accordingly.

My Dear Mrs. Post: I have been asked to act as hostess at a bridge tea at the home of a woman I have never met. I will be one of three hostesses. This tea is for the benefit of a charitable organization to which I belong. As I will not know many of the guests, how do I greet them, and what are my duties?

Answer: Say "How do you do" to anyone who seems to be alone, or you might proffer a small plate of cakes or sandwiches. In other words, make yourself politely useful as you would were you in the house of a member of your family.

He Outguessed Opponents, But Strain Was All His

BY ELY CULBERTSON

John Chambers, seated in Central Park, gazed across the busy stream of traffic on Fifth Avenue at the windows of his old club and wondered gloomily whether or not he would ever enter it again. What a contrast between the present and the last evening (only a week before) he had spent in the Bridge room! Then he had been a prosperous business man, to whom the winnings of the first-class player meant only additional pocket-money for his week-ends at the Sound. Now, his business smashed by a defaulting partner, he possessed in the whole world only the sum of $300.

True, with this sum he might expect a frugal existence for, say, perhaps a month or six weeks, hoping, Alcegaer-like, for something to turn up. Or again, he might travel to Monte Carlo and try a last gamble there. He had, however, a strong dislike for gambling into which there entered no element of skill.

A further thought entered his mind for an instant, was dismissed, but again persisted. His hand clenched on the bench and he frowned. After all, why not? Was he not the most skillful gambler on the lay of the cards in New York and therefore perhaps in the world? Why should he not take a big chance? One rubber at fifty cents a hundred he was good for if he won, then one more—and one more—before his misfortune became public property.

A moment later he rose from the seat, walked across to the club, and entered the cardroom. As he entered, the familiar words "Table Up" greeted him. Calmly he took a seat, nothing somewhat grumpy that the other three men were all seasoned and excellent players.

"Oh, by the way, Chambers," the man on his right said, "we're playing 51. Do you mind?"

"Not at all," he said nonchalantly. "Convention partner?"

"Forcing," replied the man opposite.

"Two clubs with us," said the opponent on his right.

Chambers won the deal. As he picked up the cards, he saw a little stout man who had been chatting with the Secretary in a corner move across and take up a position perceive far more of the beauties of the world than are discernable to the average person.

You have a great many friends if your birthday is on November 30th. Yours is a very easy-going nature. You are inclined to be too sensitive and retiring at times. You are very artistic and you love the beauty of things. You should do well for yourself in some line of creative endeavor. You are inclined to be at times too idealistic, but usually you are brought back to earth by a very decided practical side of yourself which makes itself apparent on occasions.

As a parent, you are inclined to be too lenient with your children, thought never to the point of allowing them to become spoiled. You will find a good deal of friction in your marital affairs, but nothing of a serious sort. You are too sensible to allow any petty differences or difficulties to magnify themselves.

Mothers find relief from the burden of colds

When Colds THREATEN With new VICKS PLAN for better CONTROL-OF-COLDS If a Cold DEVELOPS

THE PROOF...in Results..

In clinical tests among thousands last winter in schools, colleges and homes—Vicks Colds-Control Plan cut the number and duration of colds in half—saved almost two-thirds of the time lost from school due to colds—reduced the costs of colds more than half...The satisfaction of hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic users confirms these tests.

BRIEFLY, HOW VICKS PLAN WORKS

When colds threaten—At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation—Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once! They soothe irritation and aid Nature's functions in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

If a cold has developed, Vicks VapoRub (now available in Stainless form, if you prefer)—is the proved, dependable treatment. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, its double action—continuing through the night—brings quicker, surer relief. Use of the Nose Drops during the day adds to comfort—helps shorten the cold.

Vicks Colds-Control Plan was introduced last winter, along with the new aid in preventing colds—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. This new formula is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub, standby of mothers for two generations in treating colds—externally.

Together with certain simple rules of health, these preparations form Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds. How you can follow it in your home is fully explained in each Vicks package.

Gilbert Named President of Kiwanis Club

Christoph Elected Vice President; Schultheis Is Treasurer

Neenah—T. M. Gilbert was elected president of the Neenah Kiwanis club at a meeting in the Valley Inn Monday noon. He will succeed Charles Madison.

H. E. Christoph was named vice president and Elmer Schultheis, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Norton Williams, Otto Steffenhagen, A. H. Angermeyer, Otto Lieber, Dr. H. E. Berginger, John O'Leary, and Al Schultz. Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls, governor-elect of the Wisconsin Upper-Michigan district and the principal speaker on Monday's program, pointed to the need for the proper spirit during present economic adversity and outlined the benefits of returning to real family life and spiritual rather than material values.

The annual school for the instruction of officers also was conducted here Tuesday and among the Kiwanis notables present were Joshua L. Johns of Algoma, International vice president; William Faulkes of Madison, present governor of the Wisconsin Upper-Michigan district; Alexander Wiley of Chippewa Falls, district governor-elect; Paul Newman of Marinette and Norton Williams of Neenah, former district governors; and M. H. Sater of Madison, district secretary.

Honor Veteran Carrier of Mail

Postal Employees Hold Banquet at Neenah for Mads S. Madson

Neenah—Mads S. Madson, who has served as a rural mail carrier here for more than 27 years, was feted at a banquet attended by 27 Neenah postal employees at the Sign of the Fox Monday evening. Madson, who completed his twenty-seventh year of service on Aug. 18, has reached the age limit and will be retired on Nov. 30.

Following the dinner Monday, short talks were given by a number of Madson's co-workers and he was presented with a gift from the employees. The men then adjourned to the Neenah club basement and the remainder of the evening was spent playing cards and darts.

Madson was the carrier for route 3, and following his retirement, a consolidation of routes, providing for three Neenah rural routes instead of four, will become effective, it was revealed today.

Hardwares Take All Honors in Pin Loop

Neenah—The Neenah Hardware team took nearly all the honors in Sleepy Hollow league bowling on the Neenah alleys Monday evening, rolling a 1,014 high single game and a 2,936 high total. Max Kucken, three times the champion, and the high single game honors with A. Graef with 235, and bowled a high 658 series on individual counts of 204, 235 and 219.

The Hardware squad was credited with wins in three straight games with the league leading Wisconsin Telephone company aggregation while the Ford Motors won three times the Chevrolet and Larson team; the Valley Inn won three from the Elvers Drugs and the Wadham Oils took three from the Economy Drugs.

Light Pole Contract Is Awarded to Held

Neenah—The contract to provide 36 ornamental light poles and 7,500 feet of cable for use on Nicolet-blvd was awarded by the water and light commission Monday to the W. E. Pierce Hardware and Electric company of Menasha. Held's price was $1,615, the lowest of five proposals received by the commission.

The 36 light poles will be installed along the north side of the boulevard for its entire length and work probably will start in about two weeks. The cost of installation will be paid by the water and light department.

Boy Scouts Continue Inter-Patrol Work

Neenah—Boy scouts of Troop 3, meeting in St. Thomas parish house Tuesday evening, will enter the third event of an inter-patrol contest continuing over a period of six weeks. Don Rusch, scoutmaster, will be in charge.

Banquet Friday for Football Players

Neenah—The high school Athletic association will sponsor a banquet Friday evening for the 1932 football squad at the school cafeteria. Thirty-five players, together with coaches, some faculty members and a few invited guests, will be present. Dinner will be served at 6:30, after which "N's" will be given to 16 players who, during the past season, earned enough points to warrant the award. Presentation will be made by Coach Ole Jorgensen, who is also president of the Athletic association.

Following the dinner and awarding of letters, Walter (Mickey) McGuire, awarded the distinction of being the most valuable player on the 1932 University of Wisconsin football team, will speak. Other speakers will give short talks including John Schneller, former Neenah high school athlete, now at the University of Wisconsin, and Dick Hayworth, also of the university team.

Annual Session Resumed Tuesday By County Board

Supervisors Expected to Select Outdoor Relief Investigator

Neenah—The Winnebago county board resumed its November session Tuesday morning with little except routine business to transact before adjourning temporarily to allow the finance committee to compile the budget figures. The supervisors expected to adjourn all or part of Wednesday and to finish the November session on the following day.

Among the matters before the board today was the selection of an acting county clerk to work during the absence of George W. Manuel, who is ill.

The selection of an officer to investigate all outdoor relief, including transient aid, soldiers', mothers' relief, and old age assistance, also was expected at today's meeting. F. B. Keefe, appearing before the supervisors Monday afternoon, stressed the need of such an officer.

Monday the board rejected the proposition made by R. C. Laus, district attorney elect, to allow him to establish his headquarters in his own office and continue his private law practice, and adhered to their decision of last year making the district attorney's job a full time proposition with the office in the court house.

Early in the afternoon, F. B. Keefe, district attorney, attacked the Laus proposition as a "violation of the contract entered into between the district attorney elect and the people of Winnebago-co."

Following the board's decision Laus addressed the supervisors, declaring it had not been his intention to do anything illegal or to violate in any way, any contract he had with the taxpayers of the county. He said he will gladly assume his duties with the position as a full time job and that he will likewise be perfectly willing to have his offices in the courthouse.

Neenah Society

Neenah—John B. Laing, director of the Winnebago Day school of Menasha, was the principal speaker at a regular meeting of the Neenah Women's Tuesday club in the library club rooms Tuesday afternoon. Laing talked on education.

Friendly club of the Women's Relief Corps will meet at the home of Mrs. Herman Bergman, 426 Caroline-st., Wednesday afternoon.

Y. T. and F. club met at the home of Mrs. J. F. Gillingham, 310 Adams-st., Tuesday afternoon.

The study of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart was continued at a meeting of the Music Appreciation club at the home of Mrs. Annette Matheson, Church-st., Monday afternoon.

Dorothy Weinke presided and following reading of minutes by Rosemary Griffith, a questionaire on what constitutes a printed page of Music was conducted. Papers on the early life of Mozart were read by Mildred Ann Elvers, Lawrence Sommers, Dorothy Stahl, Evelyn Reichel, Yvonne Shumway, Dorothy Wiberg, Katherine Dexter, Edith Schultz and Ruth Bleiler. A program of Mozart music will be played in the near future.

After a social half hour, refreshments were served by a committee composed of Rosemary Griffith, Mary Jane Nelson, Yvonne Shumway and Dorothy Kloss. The study of Mozart's musical life will be concluded at the next meeting, Dec. 12.

Twin City Deaths

MRS. D. ARTHUR HART
Neenah—Funeral services for Mrs. D. Arthur Hart, 67, were held at the residence in the town of Clayton at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. E. Matthews, pastor of the First Methodist church of Neenah, officiated and burial was in Oak Hill cemetery.

HENRY BEHRENS
Neenah—Funeral services for Henry Behrens, 63, who died Sunday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Meyer, 203 Spruce-st., will be held at Colby Wednesday. Behrens was born in Germany but was a resident of Colby for a number of years before coming to Neenah about two years ago.

BEER BILLS — AND WAR DEBTS

One major issue after another is carried in and out of the White House. Representative Fred Britten of Illinois, who claims to have discussed beer modification with President Hoover, is shown on the White House steps greeting Secretary of Treasury Ogden Mills. Britten had just completed his conference with the President while Mills was en route to discuss war debts and the possibility of a new debt funding commission to examine debtor nations' ability to pay. Britten predicted, after his conference, that President Hoover would not veto a 2.75 per cent beer bill, but White House Secretary Theodore Joslin in a statement said the President refused to discuss the matter with the Illinois congressman.

Teacher Struck, Dragged by Car

Miss Marion Schram Believed to Have Escaped Serious Injury

Neenah—Although she was struck by a car driven by Peter Christofferson of Neenah and dragged about 30 feet, Miss Marion Schram of Fond du Lac, an instructor at the Washington grade school, is believed to have escaped injury here late Monday afternoon.

According to Neenah police, Miss Schram was walking across Commercial-st at the intersection with Wisconsin-ave about 5 o'clock and Christofferson was driving north. The traffic signal was on red and the car was moving slowly, but the brakes failed to hold and the machine struck the pedestrian.

Miss Schram was dragged about 30 feet and was underneath the car when it stopped. She was taken to Theda Clark hospital where examination revealed a cut on her head, bruises, but apparently no serious injuries.

Two Tie for Lead in K. C. Bowling League

Neenah—Two new leaders appeared in a tie for first place in Knights of Columbus league bowling following regular competition on the Neenah alleys Monday evening.

La Salles, by taking three from the Crusaders are tied first with the Pintas who won a pair from the DeSotos. The Ninjas won two out of three games from the San Pedros.

William Ryan chalked up a 572 high series and William Bevers scored a 232 pin high single game. The Admirals rolled high team game with 938 and high series with 2,691.

Neenah—Neenah Eagles' Dartball league competition will be resumed in the club rooms Tuesday evening with the second place, Orabehn Darts appearing against the Kohrt Shoe Repairs at 7 o'clock and the loop leading Neenah Prints against the Milwaukee Journals at 9. The Prints are holding first place by a one game margin, credited with 14 wins and seven losses.

District Governor to Visit Rotary Club

Neenah—Frank Carter Vilas-co probate judge and tenth district governor of Rotary, will pay an official visit to the Neenah Rotary club at a meeting in Valley Inn Tuesday evening. Carter's talk will be preceded by a 6:30 dinner.

The district governor also is scheduled to visit the Menasha Rotary club at its regular session in Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon.

Red Cross Goes Over Top in Member Drive

Neenah—The Neenah Red Cross chapter, with its 1932 membership quota set at 500, has "gone over the top" with a total of 508 members, officials have announced. The enrollment of additional memberships will continue through the remainder of the year.

St. Mary Cagers Face 12 Games

Catholic High School Quint Opens Season Friday Evening

Menasha—A 12-game schedule, including 11 Fox River Valley Catholic high school league tilts and one non-conference game with Kaukauna high school, has been arranged for the St. Mary high school basketball team. The schedule will open with a league game against St. Joseph's of Marinette at St. Mary gymnasium here Friday evening.

With only two veterans from last year on his 1932-33 squad, Coach Clifford Dilts' lineup for the opening game probably will remain in doubt until late this week. Rieschl, one of the veterans, is back in his regular position at center, with Coopman, the remaining letterman, working at guard.

Following the St. Joseph tilt here Friday evening the St. Mary cagers will meet St. John's of Little Chute here Dec. 9; St. Mary's of Oshkosh here Dec. 16; St. Peter's of Oshkosh Dec. 23; Kaukauna high school here Jan. 6; St. John's at Little Chute Jan. 11; Lourdes of Marinette here Jan. 17; St. Norbert's of De Pere here Jan. 27; St. Mary's at Oshkosh, Feb. 3; Lourdes at Marinette, Feb. 14; St. Peter's of Oshkosh here Feb. 17; and St. Norbert's at De Pere Feb. 21.

Menasha Society

Menasha—St. Thomas and St. Agnes Guilds will meet in St. Thomas parish house Wednesday afternoon. Routine work will be done at both meetings.

Mrs. George Utz, Appleton, entertained the Study club at her home Monday evening. Members responded to roll call with current events and Mrs. W. Reynolds led a question box.

B. B. B. sorority will meet in the Congregational church gymnasium Friday evening. Volleyball will be played.

More Deer Hunters Return From North

Menasha — C. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer, Frank Clark, and Clarence Huelsbeck, are among the Menasha nimrods who have returned after successful deer hunting trips. Hunting near Eagle River, Heckrodt brought down a six point buck, Clark a four point buck, and Huelsbeck a spikehorn buck. The three men also brought back 15 snowshoe rabbits.

John Hohnels, Sr., and Paul Laemmrich also returned Monday after successful hunts.

Little Tax Stock Selling Expected

Wall-st Brokers Apparently Agreed Threat This Year Isn't Serious

New York—(P)—Leading Wall-st brokers appear to agree that year-end tax selling, which in every year from 1929 to the present has fallen on a weak market and in 1930 and 1931 drove it to new lows, offers no serious market threat this year.

As a result of a change in federal income tax laws there is less inducement than before for investors and speculators to "take their losses." Under the 1932 revenue, a man can deduct as a capital loss an amount equal only to some capital gain that he experienced during the year.

In effect, so tax experts say, a man with a $10,000 loss on one stock transaction and a $5,000 gain on another transaction, can deduct only half of his loss—or an amount equal to his capital gain in order to do this, he must sell his shares in which he has the $5,000 profit, and then erase that profit through realizing an equivalent $5,000 loss through sale of those securities which have gone against his fortunes.

Under the law, the investor may carry over into the following year a portion of his undeductible capital loss, but it can be utilized only in the event that he later makes a capital gain.

In view of this fact, Wall-st looks for little tax selling this year. In previous year-ends of the bear market there had been considerable

Supply and Demand Is Held Best Guide For U. S. Business

Chicago—(P)—W. F. Jensen, manager of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers, declared today that the law of supply and demand is a better guide in business than is the government.

Appearing before the annual convention of the association with his yearly report, Jensen said action of the butter market was convincing proof that if the law of supply and demand is allowed to operate unhindered by governmental manipulation, surpluses can be taken care of.

"Butter is one of the few commodities which has maintained its demand from the consumer," he said. "There has been no governmental interference, no farm board operations in the butter market and the level of prices has been dictated by supply and demand."

New highs for the year were reached in the butter market last week, he said. Despite small profits he said dairy operators are faring comparatively well.

Next year, he said, the association will work for lower taxes, elimination of government in business; protection against importation of oils and fats and several other projects.

New Yorkers Win In First Events Of Bridge Tourney

Take First Three Places For National Mixed Team Title

New York—(P)—Entertaining the American Bridge League's National tournament for the first time, the big town proved a not too amenable host.

New Yorkers finished one-two-three in the competition for the national mixed team title, the first event on the six-day program.

H. Huber Boscowitz, Mrs. S. B. Black, Samuel Fray, Jr., and Mrs. Olga Hillard emerged from a smoke-hazy hotel ballroom in the small hours today with 26 match points on 40 boards to take the Shepard Barclay cup. They represented the Cavendish club.

A. L. Gotthelf, Mrs. L. Bloomberg, E. Cone and Mrs. I. Stern were runners-up with 231 points. Half a point behind them came George Reith, Mrs. R. B. Fuller, J. H. Block and Mrs. H. Lieberman of the Knickerbocker Whist club.

Reith and Mrs. Fuller were the defending titlists, along with Charles Lochridge and Mrs. G. A. Bennett.

The first look-in of the out of town players had was a fourth place tie at 221 points between O. S. Emerich, Miss Florence J. Stratford, Samuel L. Guggenheim and Mrs. A. C. Hoffmeier of Cleveland's Western Reserve club and Henry P. Jaeger of Cleveland, Mrs. J. Marsh of Wheeling, W. Va., Edward C. Wolfe of Cleveland and Mrs. Joe Jefferson of Wheeling.

The tournament for the open team-of-four championship, which runs through Thursday, gets under way late today. The open pair championship will start tonight and last through Friday.

Wolfe and Mrs. Jefferson in the final session of the mixed team competition eked out a little slam on the following hand which helped win them their fourth place tie:

North
S-7 2
H-K Q 10 9
D-9 7 5
C-Q 9 5 4

West
S-A Q 9 4
H-7 3 2
D-K 6 4
C-J 6 2

North and south were vulnerable, east and west were not, and east dealt.

With Wolfe and Mrs. Jefferson east and west the bidding went: East a spade, south two clubs, west two spades, north pass, east three clubs showing no losing cards in that suit, south pass, west three spades, north pass, east five spades, south pass and west six spades.

The circumstance that both the king and queen of hearts were in the north hand enabled Wolfe to east to make his contract. South led a club which east ruffed. East then drew the trumps, led a diamond to dummy's king and played a heart through north, overtaking north's king with the ace.

He then led to dummy's ace of

Vessel Damaged by Two Gigantic Freak Waves in Mid-Ocean

Baltimore—(P)—The steamship Capulin was being repaired at a floating dry dock in the Baltimore harbor today as its officers related that the damage was done by two freak waves which bore down on their ship in mid-Atlantic, twisting steel plates and covering the vessel from stem to stern.

The waves, which bore down so fast that the Capulin's crew could not escape their full force, damaged one of the lifeboats, tore away two ladders leading to the bridge, ripped up the quarter inch steel steam pipe guards, cracked the bulkhead plates and sheared off the forward ventilators even with the deck.

The officers on duty on the bridge, as the ship was hove to before a gale late in the afternoon of Nov. 11, saw the first wave appear above the already high seas. It appeared to be about 70 feet high and as seen from the bridge, towered above the crew's nest on the forward mast.

Before anything could be done, the wave engulfed the ship, and another wave, just as high and powerful which has been screened by the first, followed. The water poured over the bridge and the officers and crew on duty there crouched behind the bridge rail, hoping it too could not be carried away as the green sea-water covered them. The vessel rode out the gale and proceeded toward Baltimore, stopping first at Boston.

New London—The funeral of Michael Horan, 64, a lifelong resident of the town of Lebanon, was held Monday morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Lebanon, with the Rev. Skell in charge. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery. Mr. Horan died at a local hospital, having undergone an operation on Wednesday. He was born in Lebanon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Horan, April 6, 1868. He is survived by one brother, William, of Lebanon; and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Murphy, Lebanon, Mrs. John Lavigne, Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. George Stevenson, San Francisco. Bearers were John Crain, New London, William Egan, Michael Ahearn, Michael Hurley, James Collier and Michael Rohan of Lebanon.

Dr. J. W. Monsted Succumbs at Home

Veteran Physician Submitted to Operation Several Months Ago

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Dr. John W. Monsted, 62, prominent physician of New London, died at 1:30 Tuesday morning at his home on Wyman-st. He submitted to an operation several months ago, and although he was able to be around he had never recovered entirely. He had been confined to his home for the past week.

Dr. Monsted had practiced in New London and Waupaca-co since 1910, and prior to that time practiced in Dodge-co. He was born in Harland, Waukesha-co, Feb. 26, 1870, the son of O. T. and Anna Larsen Monsted, residents of Waukesha-co since 1845. He was educated in the public schools and taught school for several years. He entered Detroit College of Medicine and was graduated in 1894, locating in Dodge-co where he remained for 16 years. In 1910 he came to New London and acquired a large practice and a prominent place in the community. He once served as United States surgeon around the world.

He was a member of the Congregational church and of the Masonic lodge and the Royal Arch chapter, and was a stockholder in the First National Bank of New London. Several years ago he served for some time as Republican county committeeman. He was at all times active in civic affairs.

Dr. Monsted was married in 1895 to Beatrice Nixon of Ferguson, Mo. Survivors are his wife, two sons, Dr. John W. Monsted, Jr., and Robert Monsted, and one daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Cartwright, and three grandchildren, all of New London.

Rites Tomorrow for Mrs. J. C. Hickey

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London—The funeral of Mrs. J. C. Hickey, 77, who died Sunday afternoon, will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at Most Precious Blood church. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery.

Mary Rollo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Rollo, was born in Champlain, N. Y., in February, 1855. She came with her parents to this city at the age of seven, and had lived here since. Her marriage to J. C. Hickey took place 54 years ago. Surviving besides the widow, are one daughter, Josephine; one son, J. C. Hickey, Jr., three sisters, Mrs. Charles Clifford and Mrs. Amos Lamore, Oakland, Calif.; Mrs. George McDermott, Hortonville; and one brother, Charles Rollo, Mukwa.

125 Tons of Marsh Hay Swept Away by Flames

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Fremont—A fire on the large hay marsh, four miles south of Fremont, completely destroyed about 125 tons of hay Friday. The hay was owned by Caledonia, town of Wolf River and Fremont farmers. A burning brush pile and a heavy wind started the fire which swept an area about a mile wide and a mile and a half long. Over 50 men were at work and the fire was brought under control by 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. Richard Schuckel lost his entire supply.

A number of Fremont hunters have returned from the Northern Wisconsin woods with a successful deer hunting expedition. Among the fortunate nimrods in bagging a deer were Arthur Hahn, Horace Pitt, Sherman Green, Clifford Schmidt, Clifford Lind, and Edwin Sader. The former, and the latter's animal was shot at 8 o'clock after the season officially opened Monday morning. Otto Puls, Thaxter Kinsman, and Earl Wales failed to bag deer.

Mrs. Charles Pitt entertained a number of relatives Saturday afternoon in observance of her fifty-fourth birthday anniversary. A social afternoon was spent and a luncheon was served. Mrs. Pitt was presented with a gift from each guest. Those present included Mrs. George Averill, Mrs. Henry Zuehlke, Mrs. Horace Pitt, Mrs. Charles Morin, Miss Marie Morin and George Brown.

The Women's Improvement club will meet at the home of Mrs. Alpheus Steiger Tuesday evening. Mrs. Edwin Sader will entertain the Wolf River Reform Ladies Aid society Wednesday afternoon.

County Board Seeks Means to Cut Costs

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London—The Waupaca-co board, convening Monday after the Thanksgiving recess, considered means of meeting the expenditures which will fall to the county during the coming year. Suggestions were received relative to the steps to be taken through which the county might share in the funds furnished to the state through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Old age and widows' pensions, together with soldiers relief and other bills for relieving the employed situation, will be tripled this year over last year, it was pointed out. Could arrangements be made for the county to share in this appropriation, bills for the unusual demands could be met and the county reimbursed for half of its expenditures, it was said. The committee appointed to this matter comprises board members, with E. J. Perkins, Clintonville, as chairman.

The board is concerned with various recommendations presented for consideration, chief among which is a rigid pruning of county expenses. The county budget will not be ready until all matters of importance are settled.

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent. She met Barry through STEVE SACCA, RELL, her childhood sweetheart, who has returned to New York after three years' absence. Steve has been in South America where, largely by chance, he has become associated with Barry, owner of a diamond mine long believed worthless. Together they have made the mine pay and are now business partners. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru." LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, joins Mona, Barry and Steve on several dining and evening engagements. Mona's brother Bud, becomes involved with gangsters who plan to steal the big diamond. Steve suspects this, traps Bud and when he confesses helps him escape to South America where he is to have a job at the mine. Some time later Barry invites Mona, Lottie and Steve to spend Sunday at his uncle's palatial country home. It is a delightful day but Barry fails to propose to Mona as he had hoped to do the night before. When the day arrives she fails to hear from him. Barry is ill with influenza.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

I was, of course, out of the question for Mona to go to see Barry. Neither could she telephone. She shrewdly suspected that, with Barry's uncle back from White Sulphur, even Steve kept away from the Townsend country home.

"I've been in this office for three years nearly," she mused, "yet I've never seen the firm's most remunerative client!"

Nor has she Mr. Townsend, was one of the favored few who used the private elevator leading directly to Mr. Garretson's own office.

Mona glanced at her wrist watch and saw that it was well past her usual lunch time. Well, now that she had delayed this long she would wait and lunch at the Savarin.

She was expensive but occasionally she was there, ordering the most costly dish on the menu. Mona felt sick at heart. The influenza might keep Barry at home until his sailing date and by that time perhaps he would forget her!

A moment later Mollie Drury passed. Mona's desk, dropping a folded newspaper. "Get a load of that!" Mona said mysteriously.

The society page was folded outward to display a rather pretty, yet vacuous face. It was the face of a girl named Genevieve Dower.

"Miss Genevieve Dower," the caption ran, "daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Aldrich Dower of East 72nd Street and Southampton, L. I. will be presented at a dinner dance to night at Pierre's."

Mona raised uncomprehending eyes and Mollie shrugged. "Engaged, so they say, to Barry Townsend! Remember seeing him around here?"

"Mona remembered—as Mollie had expected. "Engaged?" she repeated. "The paper doesn't say that, does it?"

"The paper doesn't—but Dr. Dower and Barry Townsend's uncle are great pals. They were down at White Sulphur, with Dr. Garretson."

Mona looked again at the portrait. The face was unfamiliar but the name—ah, she recognized it! Barry had been called to the telephone last Sunday when Jimmie reported, "Miss Dower is calling."

"It is announced," she asked daily. Mollie raised her hands, indicating disinterest. "Not yet, I guess. The girl probably wants a fling in society before she marries."

Who could want a fling—Mona thought desperately, with Barry waiting? She said nothing however and Mollie, only half-satisfied with the effect of her news, descended to eat her lunch.

Mona was about to relinquish her post when the telephone rang. It was Steve once more.

"Want to run out to Twilands with me tonight?" he asked. Steve had just talked to Mrs. Faxon who said Barry was feeling better.

"I can't tonight, Steve, I'm going to see Father."

Declining Steve's suggestion that she should drive to Twilands after visiting the hospital, Mona put down the instrument and set off for lunch.

The Savarin was emptying and she found a secluded seat near a corner. Without consulting the menu Mona ordered briefly "a pot of tea with lemon, eggs Benedictine and toast."

The cool green of the room, the music, faraway but insistent, the spotless linen gave her the sense of luxury her mood required. Presently the waiter brought her order, lifted the silver cover of the dish proudly and poured the tea.

Mona drank the beverage slowly. Holding the cup to her lips she noted that she was not, as she had thought, alone in this section of the room. Directly across sat Mr. Garretson chatting with another man.

Mona noticed that the stranger was slim with a slightly military erectness and that he was regarding her as he flicked ashes from his cigar into a tray.

For an instant his eyes met Mona's. Swiftly the girl looked away and again considered her tea cup.

As she rose to leave she glanced toward Mr. Garretson who bowed.

"He'll think I'm extravagant," Mona thought with alarm. Hurrying away, she had the uncomfortable feeling that the two men were discussing her. She didn't want Mr. Garretson to think she wasted money—today of all days!

For Mona had decided to ask for an advance with which to finance her father's treatment. She would, of course, approach Mr. Garretson about it. It had been Mr. Garretson who had hired her, arranged her work, and given her frequent raises in salary.

At five o'clock Mona took the subway and rode to the hospital, reflecting as she struggled through the crowds that this was the first evening in a long while that she had not made the trip in Steve's car.

At a corner shop she bought tobacco and oranges and selected some cartoon booklets for her father who was an enthusiastic admirer of Mickey Mouse.

Following the stiffly starched nurse into the doctor's office Mona's heart grew lighter. With Dad well once more she would be so much happier. Bud was no longer a worry. Kitty was doing well at school. Ma had felt better lately too. There was only the problem of raising the money for her father's treatment.

Steve might loan her the amount, Mona reflected. But no—she couldn't ask him for it. She had taken such pains to make clear to Steve just what she could accept from him and what she could not.

Mona recalled one of Lottie's axioms concerning men. "They'll spend a fortune on you for things you don't need or even care about. Oh—the lobster Newberg I've eaten when I haven't touched a thing. I've worn when I was wondering how to pay the rent! Whenever you really need something you can count men out!"

She remembered that once when one of the girls had been in urgent need of money Lottie had conducted a sale and many of her friends had generously thrown in various treasures. Lottie, as auctioneer, glib of tongue and generous herself, and rapidly raised the required sum.

Mona, however, had nothing to sell. The emerald coat might have brought $500 but it had been returned to Pilgrim's the day after its arrival. She had declined the diamond necklace. No—there was no way except to ask her employer for an advance.

Dr. Dean, a slender, blond young man of earnest mien, looked up as she entered his office. The doctor's air was preoccupied and important. He had just come from a conference. He said, as with her father's case had been discussed, Dr. Fredericks, the well-known specialist, had been present and had agreed with the other doctors' findings. The radium treatment was not only advisable but essential.

In brief, technical language Dr. Dean sketched the condition, the treatment under which that condition would yield, and finally the prognosis and cost.

"As I told you before it will be $500. But when you consider that your father will be here under observation for several months that sum becomes nominal. However, we are not concerned over the payment. You can take your time for that. Dr. Fredericks, who comes to the hospital frequently, will be consulted from time to time. All you need to do, Miss Moran, is sign a document signifying your agreement to the plan of treatment. The money can wait on your convenience."

Dr. Fredericks entered the room then. He looked the antithesis of Dr. Dean—older, jovial, dark and stocky. Save for his smile and general air of efficiency, he might have passed anywhere for a badly dressed grocery clerk.

But when he spoke Mona's attitude toward the man changed completely. Here was knowledge, experience, quiet assurance. Moreover Dr. Fredericks was frankly pleased by Miss Moran's beauty.

"I feel that at any cost she must place her father under this learned man's care. As Dr. Fredericks talked the younger doctor nodded solemnly and the nurse, glanced up from her files, smiled approval.

"I brought my father a few little things," Mona told Miss Folsom after she had signed the agreement and said good night to the two doctors who were discussing other matters. "I don't suppose I can see him so late as this?"

"He's asleep," Miss Folsom smiled, "and nothing is more important to him just now than sleep. However," she eyed the packages hesitantly, "I'll leave these on the table near his bed so he will see them the moment he awakens."

"And tell him I'll be back to see him in a few days, won't you?" Mona said. "Give him my love."

Miss Folsom agreed and returned to her vigil. Why in the name of heaven she wondered, did a girl as pretty as that continue to remain "Miss Moran?"

Navy Given Chance to Beat Army Saturday Afternoon

Several Cadet Stars Injured In N. D. Game

Middies Also Report Hurts; Expect 30,000 Will See Battle

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK.—(P)—Franklin field in Philadelphia may mark the spot where Navy beat Army at football for the first time since 1921.

The thirty-second renewal of gridiron warfare between the two service academies, to be held there Saturday, now promises much closer action than any critic previously could have anticipated. Army-Navy games generally are hard-fought affairs, of course, but until Saturday the Cadets looked like certain odds-on favorites.

But the picture has changed with a vengeance. Their crack array bludgeoned into humiliating defeat by Notre Dame. Army's coaches yet even that hardly explains the almost incredible manner in which the Ramblers plowed through Army and made the cadets' hitherto powerful attack look so futile.

Navy, at any rate, must have gained plenty of confidence as it watched the Army being smothered in the Yankee stadium.

Both camps have reported a series of injuries but those at West Point seem the more serious since they are the more recent. Jablonsky, Lincoln, topkick of the front line, and Fields, Vidal and Kilday of the backfield all were badly battered in the Notre Dame disaster.

At Annapolis, there were reports that Chung-Hoon, ace halfback, Campbell, Erick, Clark and Slack, all are more or less seriously hurt.

Although Army has gained an edge of only 17 to 12 over the Navy in their long rivalry which began in 1890, the Yars have not succeeded in winning a game since they eked out a 7-0 decision in 1921. They have held the cadets to two draws in the meantime, including a scoreless deadlock in 1923 and the famous 21-21 stalemate of 1926. One other game, that of 1905, ended in a tie.

Chicago.—(P)—Twelve midwest football stars will be invited by Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern to play in the annual East-West Shrine hospital benefit game against far western aces at San Francisco, Jan. 2. Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate, will name eleven eastern players to complete the squad.

Invitations will be held up until after the Western conference meeting at Chicago Dec. 2-3, as there is still a chance that Michigan may receive and accept a bid to play in the tournament of Roses game the same day at Pasadena. Calit Should this occur, Hanley would have to locate another quarterback as Harry Newman, Wolverine pilot, is his first choice.

The rest of the prospective squad all of whom are seniors, is: ends, Paul Moss, Purdue, and Dick Fencil, Northwestern; tackles, Joe Kurth, Notre Dame, and Marshall Wells, Minnesota; guards, Dick Smith, Ohio State, Jim Harris, Notre Dame, and Bob Gonyea, Northwestern; center, John Oehler, Purdue; halfbacks, Pug Rentner, Northwestern, and Gil Berry, Illinois; fullback, Roy Horstmann, Purdue.

The squad will assemble at Evanston Dec. 19, and should Colgate receive the Rose Bowl assignment, the Raiders and All-Stars probably will make the trip west and work together.

Four other players are under consideration, but are not likely to accept as they are basketball and track men, and would become ineligible by leaving the East-West game. They are: Ray Williamson, Michigan, and Bradbury Robinson, Minnesota; ends, Lew Hinchman, Ohio State, halfback and Greg Kabat, Wisconsin, guard.

Carnera Signs as Sub for Griffiths

Chicago.—(P)—Things being the way they are in the boxing business, Primo Carnera is taking no chances on overlooking a chance for employment, even as a substitute.

Carnera came to Chicago last week to fight with King Levinsky, but the bout was postponed from Nov. 30, to Dec. 9, due to the latter's illness.

He was on his way to St. Louis today to fill in for Tuffy Griffiths, against John Schwake, St. Louis heavyweight, Friday night. Griffiths was forced to withdraw because of an injury suffered in training.

Primo will be back in time to finish training for the Levinsky bout.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS By Laufer

Football Took Toll of 37 Players This Year

NEW YORK.—(P)—Football's death toll for 1932 had reached 37 today, the second highest total since national records on gridiron fatalities first were compiled.

The drastic changes made in the football code after last year's record number of 50 fatalities apparently have cut appreciably into deaths and serious injuries where they have been strictly enforced.

This year's list of football dead shows only five from college ranks and of these only one was fatally injured in actual competition. He was Ralph McClure of Colorado college, whose neck was broken in a game against the University of Colorado.

Most of the fatalities of the season now drawing to a close occurred in high school or sandlot contests where strict supervision often is not possible.

In addition to the five college players fatally injured, there were 17 high school and 15 sandlot, semi-pro or club team player fatalities.

Eight of the 37 victims died of broken necks; six from head injuries other than fractured skulls which took five more lives. Five others died of infections following injury. Internal injuries and cerebral hemorrhage each were charged with three deaths. The remaining fatalities were due to scattering causes, spinal injuries, heart ailments, etc.

Cincinnati Boxers Draw Suspensions

Louisville, Ky.—(P)—Three Cincinnati boxers, a manager and a fight promoter were under temporary suspension today pending a hearing next Monday when they will be given an opportunity to present their side of the Piqua program mix-up to the Kentucky state boxing commission.

The boxers suspended by the Kentucky board yesterday were Al Hamilton, Billy Jingles and Smokey Maggard, all of Cincinnati. Danny Davis, Cincinnati, manager of Hamilton and Maggard, and Pat Wright, Cincinnati and Indianapolis promoter, also were temporarily shelved.

It was charged Hamilton fought at Piqua, Ohio, last Wednesday under the name of Joe Fagnina, Louisville; that Jingles used the name of Mickey Breen, Louisville, and that an unnamed boxer appeared under the name of Howard Jones, Louisville. Maggard appeared on the same card but used his own name.

Roach's 184 and the third with J. Baile's 220.

MID WISCONSIN LEAGUE
Kraft Cheese, Appleton, started in mid season form against the Speed Queens of Ripon Sunday in a Mid Wisconsin league game but ended by losing two games to the invaders.

The Cheese copped the first game when R. Currie blasted 24 and A. Mitchell 207 and A. Brecklin 205. The team score was 1,026. In the second contest Currie collected a 204 but his mates slipped and Ripon won. The Crimson also copped the second game.

Game scores follow.

"Y" Volley Ballers Will Play Two Games

Two Appleton Y. M. C. A. volleyball teams will see action this week, according to W. S. Ryan, physical director of the association Tuesday evening a delegation will go to Kaukauna for games with a Kaukauna team. Among members of the Appleton squad will be Herman, Getschow, Alya Carter, Bob Potter, Cy. Krueger and Dick Getschow. Several other members still are to be named.

Wednesday evening another Appleton team, members of which have not yet been named, will meet a squad from Neenah. The Neenah netters are being organized by "Ossie" Cooke, former college athlete.

Packey McFarland Slated for Post On Fight Board

One Time Lightweight Contender Will be Named To Illinois Body

Chicago.—(P)—Packey McFarland, contender for the world's lightweight championship 20 years ago, is slated to become a member of the Illinois State Athletic commission, when governor-elect Henry Horner assumes office Jan. 15.

Reports were current today that McFarland's name is being given serious consideration, along with George Lytton, wealthy merchant, former amateur boxer of renown, and one of the judges of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Soldier field.

Since retiring from the ring, McFarland, once a slim waisted youngster of 135 pounds, has blossomed into a 200-pounder. He was famed as the "pride of the stock yards" and frequently has been called the greatest fighter who failed to win a championship. He boxed in the days of Joe Gans, Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast, but was unable to make the lightweight limit which was then 133 pounds.

In recent years, McFarland has engaged in business ventures in Joliet, Ill., now his home, and amassed a fortune, in real estate and other enterprises. At one time he was vice president of a Joliet bank.

McFarland, now about 43 years old, has devoted considerable time to the activity of the Catholic youth organization in Chicago, in fostering amateur boxing among its members. He has refereed more than 1,000 bouts in the elimination series preliminary to the finals of the Catholic youths tournament, which will be held in the Chicago Stadium next month.

Hear Testimony In Umpire's Suit

Jim Murray Suing Thomas J. Hickey, A. A. Head, For $25,000

Milwaukee.—(P)—Testimony in the $25,000 damage suit brought by Jim Murray, former baseball umpire, against Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association, was resumed here today before circuit judge Otto H. Breidenbach.

Murray alleges Hickey blacklisted him in organized baseball, prevented him from getting employment as an umpire, and unlawfully interfered with his contract in the Three-Eye league.

After Hickey failed to renew his contract as an association umpire in the spring of 1927, Murray testified he obtained a job in the Central league, then in the Three-Eye league, and that just before the end of the 1929 season he was unconditionally released because he had failed to repay $25 he borrowed from Hickey in 1929 to buy an umpire's uniform.

A letter which Murray received from Hickey referring to the debt was the principal evidence submitted at yesterday's hearing. It read in part:

"I have waited patiently for you to return the $25 loaned you when you started work in the Central league. This is to remind you that I consider you the most ungrateful human being that ever drew a breath of life. . . . Just remember, I will work just as hard from now on to keep you from securing a position as I worked to secure one for you."

Asked what feeling existed between himself and Hickey, Murray said "it was hate." The former umpire said Hickey had discharged him three times. He was still on the stand when the session ended.

Kentucky Coach Seeks 7 Foot Cage Star for 9 Foot Bed

Lexington, Ky.—(P)—University of Kentucky basketball coaches were extremely interested this fall when Brad Lair, former Monticello, Ky., high school star, enrolled at the university.

Reason: Lair was six feet, eleven inches tall, and used his height to no small advantage on the court.

Adolph Rupp, head coach, considered the prospect so highly that he had constructed especially for the Mountaineer a nine-foot bed Lair could sleep in comfort in his room at the dormitory.

Came Thanksgiving, Lair by then had decided college life wasn't so hot, and had returned to his beloved hills near Monticello.

Now Coach Rupp either wants to sell the lengthy bed or find a basketball player to fit it. He much prefers the latter.

Roosevelt High Boys Compete in Basketball Meet

Four Teams Tied for Lead In the Heavyweight Conference

THREE basketball leagues are competing at Roosevelt junior high school under direction of Coach W. C. Pickett. The heavyweights and lightweights are nearing completion of a round robin tournament while the seventh graders are just beginning.

The heavyweights include all boys in the eighth and ninth grades over 110 pounds. There are eight teams in this league and so far four teams are tied for first place. They are Indiana, Northwestern, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Libman Leads Notre Dame
Other teams are Notre Dame captained by G. Libman; Marquette, captained by DeBauer; Michigan, captained by Freiders; and Southern California, captained by J. Dutcher. All games have been exceedingly close, Michigan losing all its games by one point margins.

The lightweights are composed of eight teams whose members are under 110 pounds. Eight and ninth graders make up the squad although there are about ten seventh graders in the group. Three teams are undefeated namely, Trojans, Bulldogs and Aces. The Trojans are captained by Catlin and have De Nobil, Retson, Schlitz, Colvim and Kottler. The Bulldogs have Furstenberg as captain with Nelson, Grimmer, T. Mulhaupt, Pegel and Jahnke. The Aces have Wolfram as captain, Blinder, Ogilvie, Wriston, Loveland and Lee. The other teams are as follows: Rhinos, Capt. Renner, Lions, Capt. Bailey, Tigers, Capt. Glaeser, Spartans Capt. Kapp, and Packers—Capt. Bentz.

Begin Play Today
The seventh graders began their tournament tonight with all four teams seeing action. The past month has been used to get the beginners started in the game. Fundamentals have been worked on and a knowledge of the game impressed upon them. The Vikings with Rogers as captain will have White, Huebner, K. Miller, Buchanan, De Land, Fowless, Cannon, and Watson. The Comets with Melby as captain have Wiesenberg, Gessel, Ross, Springer, Orbuson, Lessel-young, H. Williams, and Schindler. The Cardinals with Hoeppner for capt. have Powers, Zehle, Bethle, Volkman, Babb, Johnson, Tegen and Lesselyoung. The All Stars have Herman, captain, M. Smith, Christians, E. Mueller, Johnston, Van Able, Stenberg, Lee, and R. Mueller.

One more week will clear up all the games and then an elimination tournament will be played between the same teams. Following this a home room tournament will be staged to complete the basketball intramural season.

Chicago Rotary Club Entertains A. A. Stag

Chicago.—(P)—The Rotary club of Chicago today was host to a luncheon in honor of Amos Alonzo Stagg, who will be retired as director of athletics at the University of Chicago next June.

The program included an address by Lt. Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York, former assistant secretary of war, on "How an Outsider Sees Stagg."

Hialeah Opens Jan. 19
The winter race meeting at Hialeah Park, Miami, opens Jan. 19, and closes March 7. Purse and stakes will total more than $300,000.

MR. SIMMONS IS SIMMERING

While the north is shivering before winter's early frigid blasts, Al Simmons, former Philadelphia Athletics slugger, and now property of Lew (Trader Horn) Fonseca's Chicago White Sox, is basking under the torrid heat of a sweat-box. He is shown here taking off a few pounds in a steam bath at Hot Springs, Ark.

Just a Hint Why Irish Walloped Army

NO doubt you have decided by this time that Notre Dame was "primed to the gills" for the Army last Saturday and that accounted for the over-whelming slaughter of the cadets in the hands of the South Bend "foreign legion."

Dick Pfefferle, Appleton youth who has been performing with the South Bendites this year as a reserve tackle wrote home last week and his letter fairly bubbled with the spirit back of the squad.

The letter was written after the Navy game at Cleveland. Dick first recounts how he was in the Navy game for five minutes or to be exact—three plays—when his shoulder slipped out of joint. He didn't mind much, however, for the alleged Irish gained 11 yards over him on the play and that was some satisfaction.

Then follows a vivid resume of what happened as the trainer, two nurses and two doctors tried to

"coax the shoulder back in place," as Dick says, while he made funny faces for three quarters of an hour. A couple braces were slapped on the shoulder and Dick went to the hotel in a police ambulance and to dinner that night with one arm in a sling.

Speaking of the Army game, Pfefferle commented that the boys expected toast, honey, spinach and baked potatoes for Thanksgiving dinner. And then he expresses himself in a manner that the West Point boys should have heard about before last Saturday.

"We're going to New York to beat Army and nothing else. It's about time for that first club to play a real ball game and they're due. Watch them unload Saturday. Army is going to find a different club on the field Saturday than they expect. This Notre Dame team is going to be in there with something they've been lacking since the Carnegie game. The Cadets got a big powerful, classy ball club but it's going to be outfought and that'll win for us."

"And incidentally—Saturday we should work. Give them everything we've got. We empty our bag of tricks. It's everything or nothing Saturday. . . . There's so many things at stake in this game. Hunk's job for one thing, and if you don't think the boys will be in there fighting you have another thing to go. . . . Also, half the big time coaches in the country will be up in the stands and we've got to show them that the Notre Dame team and system are the best in the country. We're going to take them like Roosevelt took Hoover. If I get a chance in there I'll unload everything I got on some soldier's neck."

Somebody Should do Something About This

The Green Bay Packers seem to be in a deep, deep hole about this professional football championship race—a hole so deep they may not get out and may lose the pennant for the first time in three years.

Last Sunday Portsmouth and the Bears clashed. A win for either team would have helped the Packers a bit because the Bears would have to defeat only one of them to clinch its claim to the title.

But the two clubs went out and played to a 7 and 7 tie, or something like that, and of course the game doesn't count in the win and loss column. For that reason the Packers must either beat or tie both teams now to insure themselves of the rag.

If the Bears beat the Spartans Sunday the latter will have two defeats. That will leave the Bears in the running with a chance of topping the Packers.

All of which brings several suggestions asking why the league standings can't be arranged in some manner where ties will count against the teams.

R. & S. Shoes Show at Kimberly

Seek Seventh Win Tonight At Expense of Kaukauna Five

R. and S. Shoes will seek their seventh victory of the season tonight when they go down to Kimberly and play the Big Six team of Kaukauna on the clubhouse floor. The game will be the preliminary to the Kimberly-Oshkosh game.

The Kaukauna team is composed of high school stars from Kaukauna and should make the going tough for the Shoes who are former Appleton high stars. The Kaws last year took second place in Neenah tournament competition.

Last week the Shoes walloped the New Holstein city team in a scoring spree, 33 and 22. Preibe led the Appleton club with seven buckets and was followed by Kneip who rolled in two baskets and six free throws for a total of ten points.

The Shoes lineup for tonight will show Preibe and Kneip at forwards, Verbrick at center, Zimdars, Griebhaber and McCanna, guards, and Callahan in Reserve.

Pretty Bum Average
In its game with Colgate this year, New York University attempted 13 passes. The first and last one completed took place 30 seconds before the end of the game.

Trojans to Get Bid for Annual Rose Bowl Game

Will Pick Middle West or Eastern Opponent Within Week

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES.—(P)—University of Southern California officials will be invited, and is expected to accept, the offer tonight to represent the far west in the eighteenth annual Rose tournament football game.

Out of the meeting between Rose bowl and Trojan officials also may come the solution of the problem concerning Southern California's opponent, but it is generally believed this information will not be forthcoming for several days.

Michigan is favored in the list of four unbeaten grid elevens from the east, midwest and south. The others in the order of possible choice, are Colgate, with its goal line not crossed this season; Pittsburgh, unbeaten but twice tied, and Alabama Poly, potential Southern conference champions with a clear slate.

Wolve Fans Have Hope
Alumni of the Wolverine school have taken heart in the fact that although the Rose tournament officials sent out a feeler to Fielding Yost, athletic director of Michigan, no answer has been received.

They believe that had Yost been inclined to consider the appearance of the Big Ten champions at Pasadena, Jan. 2, impossible he would have answered the confidential query in the negative. D. S. McDaniels, president of the Rose tournament committee, said he had received no reply.

One marked development in the situation has been the strengthening of Pittsburgh's standing in the list of potential teams Southern California still prefers Colgate next to Michigan, unofficially, but the showing made by the Panthers in turning back Stanford might, for several reasons, cause Pitt to get the call.

Those who favor Pitt over Colgate point out that the Panthers have played opponents of perhaps higher caliber than the Red Raiders and that the tie game with Ohio State and Nebraska do not detract from the record.

Unless Michigan, Colgate and Pittsburgh do an about face, Alabama Poly is out of the running. Of the last seven games, the south has participated in five and the Trojans, who defeated Tulane last Jan. 1, prefer an opponent from the midwest or east.

New Tiger Recruit

The Detroit Tigers have farmed out Art Tomson, Berea, Ohio, pitcher, to the Huntington, W. Va., team of the Middle Atlantic League.

that's the comment about these new TIES

"Obey, obey, obey!" That's what the boss and the assistants at Ferron's said about these ties. That's what the fellows said when they saw 'em. That's what the gals who are giving ties for Christmas said. Come in and see why. The swellest creations you ever saw . . .

New York—Bep Van Klaveren, Holland, outpointed Eddie Ran, Poland, (10); Enzo Piermonte, Italy, stopped Paul Delaney, California, (4); Baby Joe Carr, Los Angeles, knocked out Jackie Mason, New York, (2); Al Diamond, Paterson, N. J., outpointed Eddie Foster California, (8).

Holyoke, Mass.—Don (Red) Barry, Washington outpointed Arthur Eutrick, New York, (10).

Philadelphia—Eddie Cool, Philadelphia, outpointed Lew Massey, Philadelphia, (10); Bully Ketchel, Millville, N. J., outpointed Jack Kilbourne, Australia, (10).

New Texas Golf Course
The recently completed Walnut Hill outside Dallas, Texas, is said to have the largest putting greens and tees of any links in the state.

A questionnaire submitted to members of the Notre Dame football squad showed that most of them get their greatest thrill from their first scrimmage as freshmen against the varsity.

New York.—The stock market made a rather feeble effort to rally today, but selling of the tobacco stocks in the last half hour proved unsettling, and the list closed with a barely steady tone, with mixed gains and losses, largely inconsequential proportions. The turnover was only about half a million shares.

Selling of the tobacco appeared to be based largely on recent statistics showing declining consumption, and was said to be partly for short account. Ralls held up well, and there were some further bullish activity in gold mining issues. Another break in sterling appeared to have been discounted as a market factor.

American Tobacco "B" lost 2 points, international business machines broke 4 points or omission of the stock dividend, although the regular cash disbursement was ordered. It later recovered more than a point. Reports that Safeway's dividend would be reduced brought selling into that issue and it lost more than a point. American Telephone rose a point then reacted to close unchanged. U. S. Steel advanced steady. Case moved similarly. Oils held up well, with Standard Oil of N. J. ruling a fraction higher. Union Pacific and Santa Fe, after rising about a point, closed virtually unchanged. Homestake Mining rose more than 2 points. McIntyre Porcupine was up a fraction for a time, but encountered profit taking later.

Market analysts stressed the relative steadiness of railroad stocks throughout the recent period of backing and filling. The improved volume of this group was attributed not only to the manifest improvement in net earnings resulting from the autumn traffic gain, but also to hope that the non-partisan Coolidge transportation committee may recommend legislation of a helpful nature for action at the coming session of congress.

There was considerable conjecture over the new international copper conference. It was widely predicted in the trade that much of the work of this conference could be reached by an agreement between the conference's two principal points: Curtailment of production and orderly marketing of surplus supplies. Nevertheless, hope was expressed in some quarters that concrete results might shape themselves after a series of secret meetings.

Trade reports contributed little by way of change to the picture of seasonally declining business. The recent weakening of crude oil prices in western oil fields was followed by reports that gasoline prices were easing somewhat in the Pacific northwest, but elsewhere no important price changes were revealed.

Curb Issues Keep In Limited Range

Moderate Firmness Prevails Despite Weakness of Sterling

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York.—Curb transactions today covered a limited range, both in issues traded and price fluctuations. However, the market was again able to ignore weakness of sterling and after some early hesitancy quotations developed a moderate degree of firmness. Volume was light.

American Gas and Electric, yesterday's soft spot in the utility group, retraced part of the ground lost, apparently by short covering induced by the general market's tone. Electric Bond and Share again traded sluggishly, but was a little higher much of the day. Other power and light company issues were listless.

Gold mining shares, which had been taking an active part in the market, lapsed back into dullness, although they ruled steady on such transfers as were made. Low priced industrials and specialties were quiet. Stutz, Newmont, Technicolor and Cord Corp., making scant variations from previous closing prices. Aluminum of America improved slightly, but the preferred stock was inclined to ease.

Small interest was taken in the oil division.

Hog Offerings Top Advance Estimate

Prices Decline Close to Lowest Point in Current Year

Chicago.—Despite all the precautions taken by producers to check the marketing of swine during the stock show week, offerings today exceeded the advance estimate by 10,000 and prices drifted close to the lowest point of the year.

While the fresh supply of 35,000 here was considerably larger than a week ago, and the twelve market total showed a substantial increase, contrasted with the number marketed a year ago, today's run seemed puny. Outlet for pork continued narrow and packers, who received 13,000 hogs on direct consignment, showed little interest in open market offerings at the outset.

With signs of mounting activity on the part of eastern order buyers, commission men boldly held out for steady prices, but actual sales and most bids were 5-10c under Monday's average. Lights of substantial weight and butchers averaging up to 260 lbs. crossed the scales early at $3.30 though $3.40 was quoted and choice lights were held even above this figure. About 4,000 stale hogs were on hand.

Supplies of bovine stock were scaled down again following Monday's extremely light receipts and buyers of high grade steers undertook their survey of the offerings with the demand for fat lambs. So far the market has maintained its upward trend, though it slackened perceptibly as top values have reached mid-September levels. Packers received only 100 head of lambs from outside points.

$29,400 to be Distributed in Yule Accounts

Total Is Approximately $7,000 Less Than Last Year, Bankers Report

Kaukauna — Approximately $29,400 will be paid out by the two Kaukauna banks next week in Christmas savings accounts. Bankers report that this amount is $7,000 less than for the same period last year. The average amount per person, according to the recent census, is $4.50 for the period.

Christmas savings account at the bank of Kaukauna have been closed and new clubs will be opened Dec. 1. Club members will be able to get their savings at the bank after 10 o'clock, Dec. 5. The checks will not be mailed out but will be distributed at the bank to allow members to get their money as soon as possible, according to Charles D. Towles, bank cashier.

At the Farmers and Merchants bank the accounts will be closed on Dec. 10 and the new clubs will start at once. Members of the clubs at the Farmers and Merchants bank will be able to get their money at the bank the Monday following the closing date, according to Hugo Weitenbach, president. New clubs can be started at any time at both banks.

The clubs have become popular with patrons of the bank and are used for various purposes. Some of the clubs are maintained as part of a budget to pay taxes, insurance premiums, and Christmas gifts. Clubs are grouped in several different classes ranging in weekly deposits from one cent to $20 dollars. None of the money can be withdrawn until the accounts are closed in December.

Cows and Chickens Produce Less Now

Madison — Believe it or not but cows and chickens are producing less during the current depression. According to figures made available by the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture, Wisconsin cows at the beginning of November averaged 12.7 pounds of milk per cow compared with 140 pounds a year ago and a 5-year average of 13.2 pounds.

In the nation at large crop reporters' herds averaged 11.7 pounds of milk per cow in November compared with 12.6 last year and a 5-year average of 12.0 pounds.

In Wisconsin at the beginning of November, chickens averaged 16.6 eggs per hundred birds daily compared to 13.0 a year ago. For the United States chickens average 12.9 compared to 14.7 a year ago and 13.2 two years ago.

One of the reasons for lower milk production is the fact that farmers of the nation have been feeding less grain because of prevailing low prices of dairy products. The price of old cows at the stockyards has been so low that farmers have kept them in the milking herds rather than sacrifice them at the low prices paid for that type of beef. Low production of such old cows has affected the general average.

The poultry industry is now experiencing higher prices because of smaller flocks and a relatively larger number of old hens kept because low egg prices discouraged the raising of young chicks last spring. Under these conditions, egg production per hen is lower.
